UVALDE, Tex. — Cactus Jack Garner passed the 90th milestone on his avowed way to 100 years Saturday with blessings from national leaders.

"I am deeply moved," said John Nance Garner. "I haven't the language to tell you what is in my heart."

The man who served many years as speaker of the House, then two terms as vice-president during the hectic New Deal days, was the final speaker at his birthday party.

Garner's neighbors joined with former president Harry Truman and other noted friends in paying him tribute.

Earlier in a long talk in the living room of the Tully Garner home nearby, Truman and Garner exchanged reminiscences of the New Deal days and paid high tribute to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"I loved Roosevelt," Garner said. "He was worthy of love and respect, and he returned it."

Truman then joined in: "So did I. There never was a finer man."

LONDON—A first novel by a 100-year-old Scottish woman is recommended by a London critic as "an inspiration" to angry young novelists.

The 30,000-word book, "Jottings of Jennima" by Marian L. Jones, former Edinburgh school teacher, is an intimate glimpse of a mid-Victorian household.

NEW YORK—Former movie queen Grace Kelly, who abdicated her throne in Hollywood to become the real-life Princess of Monaco, came home Sunday to eat Thanksgiving dinner with the folks in Philadelphia.

The radiantly smiling princess, bundled against a chill wind in a full-length mink coat, was greeted at Idlewild International Airport by her father, John B. Kelly, Sr., a millionaire contractor who once worked as a bricklayer.

At his daughter's side was her husband, Prince Rainier.

THEATRE GUILD OPENER

'Entertaining But Underdone'

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

A highly entertaining mixture of comedy and melodrama is R. and M. Pertwee's "The Paragon," which Victoria Theatre Guild opened Saturday night and will play all this week at Langham Court Theatre.

This first-rate if somewhat overly colored theatrical fare concerns a man's devotion to a worthless son who goes to war, switches identities in the battle line and deserts, leaving his family and friends to believe him a dead hero.

Actually, of course, he is a very much alive villain and equally, of course, eventually turns up to create crisis upon crisis on the home front.

HE SEES ALL

Doting daddy, now blind, is about to dedicate a million-dollar memorial to the hero when the light bursts upon him and, figuratively speaking, he sees all.

Here there should have occurred a smashing, suspense-laden climax to the entire action of the play, but it didn't come off on Saturday night. Poor light cues and a feeling of uncertainty on the part of the actors were mainly responsible.

No tensions were built up between the actors, principally it would seem because the production was like a

IN SHIP DISPUTE

'Some Sort Of Action' Union's Plea

An official of one of three unions involved in the long-simmering Canadian Pacific coast steamships' dispute today called on Ottawa to bring it to an end by arbitration.

"The government has had several weeks to appoint an arbitration board," Denis McKeown, business agent in Vancouver of the Marine Engineers, "but they seem to have done nothing. I have sent them a letter today asking for some sort of action."

The federal government got the company's eight ships back to work July 25 after a two-month strike by the Seafarers Union by appointing an administrator under a special emergency bill.

Arbitration to decide the issue that provoked the strike — wages — was promised "shortly after" the administrator came to the coast.

NO LIFE

"But there has been no life in Ottawa," Mr. McKeown said. "This thing seems as dead as can be. We mean to find out what is being done."

The official understood the government was having a bit of trouble finding three men of the stature required to form the arbitration board.

"But I don't think they can hold things up much longer."

ALD. RAMSAY TO RUN AGAIN

Ald. Hugh Ramsay announced over the weekend he will stand for re-election Dec. 11.

Seven candidates now are in the race for the four aldermanic seats, including the incumbents running for another term.

A proponent of the downtown improvement plan and amalgamation, he said he was running on his record.

Power Cost Query From Candidate

Labor's aldermanic candidate in the December 11 elections, Alfred Toone, today called on the city council to "clarify" certain power costs and distribution discrepancies in the operation of the B.C. Electric Co., and described in a recent statement by former B.C. Power Commission general manager H. Lee Briggs.

A statement issued by Mr. Toone, secretary-treasurer of the Victoria Labor Council, reads in part:

"The remarks of Mr. Briggs about the B.C. Electric are of vital importance to Victorians. I feel that in all fairness to the community and the company, the city council should try to clarify the situation."

Mr. Toone said he is particularly concerned about the difference between what it costs the company to obtain power and the price of distribution and re-sale.

IWA Charged With Ignoring Lumber Slump

From CP Dispatches

PENTICTON — The Interior Lumber Manufacturers Association has charged the International Woodworkers of America with seeking large wage increases without regard to the poor economic condition of the industry.

Interior IWA members have voted to strike lumber operations Tuesday.

The interior association said in a prepared statement it appears IWA leaders are "not interested in the economic results of a strike, or in the economic conditions of the industry, but are mainly interested in large gains which will set a pattern for future negotiations in other areas."

The association said the lumber industry is in a period of depressed markets and prices. It said prices are lower than they have been since 1951 and increased freight rates on Dec. 1 would further hit the industry.

BOY RESCUED

VANCOUVER — A man, dog, and an eleven-year-old boy teamed up here to save another small boy from drowning in the Fraser River Sunday.

Rescued was Gregory Graham, 9. The rescuers were Clyde Ramsey, Daryl Acker, 11, and his dog, Rex. Daryl offered his hand to the younger boy and was pulled into the river. The dog went after his master and finally Ramsey helped both boys to shore. The dog swam out by himself.

CONSTRUCTION UP

VANCOUVER—Construction in 43 British Columbia centres showed a slight increase in October. Compared with the same month a year ago, and a large gain for the first 10 months of 1958 over last year.

A Journal of Commerce survey showed that building permits in these centres in October were $19,903,000, an increase of $86,000 over the total of $19,816,000 for the same month last year.

UNION SWITCH

PENTICTON — The 3,500-member Okanagan Federation of Fruit and Vegetable Workers' Union has changed its constitution as the first move toward affiliation with the Canadian Labor Congress.

It is hoped the move will bring peace after a three-year battle of opposing international unions trying to gain control of independent fruit workers.

ALLY GAINED OR LOST? U.K. WONDERS

LONDON (UPI) — British diplomats wondered today whether the projected Guinea-Ghana merger means the commonwealth has gained a Guinea or lost a Ghana.

British experts said the situation was unprecedented in commonwealth history and raised problems that could be solved only by agreement among all the commonwealth nations.

They wondered whether Ghana's premier Kwame Nkrumah wanted to leave the commonwealth or planned to bring Guinea in as a new partner.

French Sudan Proclaimed A Republic

PARIS (AP)—The French Sudan today proclaimed itself a republic within the French community.

The territorial assembly, meeting at Bamako, voted to take this form under the new federation of overseas French possessions created by Premier de Gaulle.

The western African country, with a population of about 4,000,000 voted overwhelmingly in the constitutional referendum Sept. 28 to remain within the French orbit. It now becomes partly independent, with the direction of its foreign, economic and defence affairs turned over to the evolving community.

Ghana-Guinea Merger Keys Drive for New African Union

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters)—Ghana and Guinea, "inspired by the example of the 13 American colonies," Sunday declared their agreement to "constitute our two states as the nucleus of a union of West African states."

In a second declaration, Ghana agreed, subject to parliamentary approval, to grant a loan of £10,000,000 ($28,000,000) to newly independent Guinea.

Leaders of the two countries said they hope other states now under foreign rule will join the union.

Guinea, formerly a French colony, got its independence last September, by voting against the new constitution proposed by Premier Charles de Gaulle.

NEW FLAG

Ghana, formerly the British colony of the Gold Coast, gained its independence in March, 1957.

The declaration said Ghana and Guinea had agreed as a first step to adopt a union flag, develop the closest contacts and harmonize defence, foreign and economic policies.

The next step will be the drawing up of a constitution.

These moves were "not designed in any way to prejudice the present and future relations of Ghana and the Commonwealth or Guinea and the French community," the declaration said.

It was issued after talks here between Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana and Sekou Toure, the premier of Guinea.

Nkrumah has long envisaged and worked for a West African federation that would include Nigeria, Sierra Leone and Gambia. Others mentioned as possible member states are the Ivory Coast, Togoland, French West Africa, French Equatorial Africa, Spanish West Africa and the Spanish-held island of Fernando Po, off the southwest Nigerian coast.

Ghana has a population of more than 4,000,000 and covers 91,843 square miles. Its production is mainly agricultural. Guinea, with a population of 2,500,000 is potentially rich in bauxite—the ore from which aluminum is made.

The Wrenching Decision

CANADA, SAID MR. PEARSON, in a recent speech, "simply cannot afford to continue a defence effort based on a strategy and concept that was perfectly valid a few years back but which may now be as out of date as the Charge of the Light Brigade."

Is our present defence program based on such an obsolete concept? That is the big question behind all the details and it has not been answered. Indeed, so far as the public knows, it has not even been considered fundamentally.

This is not said in criticism of the Diefenbaker Government, which inherited the present policy from its predecessor. The issue here is not partisan and, if possible, should not be allowed to become partisan. Certainly Mr. Pearson has not tried to make it so.

But as an international statesman Mr. Pearson sees that many of the Western world's assumptions about defence have been out-dated by the events of the last year or two. Therefore "we should re-examine and re-assess our whole defence effort in the light of nuclear and missile developments. . . I do not mean a cursory survey but a searching examination of the role that Canada can and should play in the new situation."

As Mr. Pearson says, a world power like the United States, with world-wide responsibilities, is in a position quite different from that of a relatively small power like Canada. The United States can afford a pretty wide dispersal of effort. For Canada it would be ruinous to spread our efforts too widely and too thinly lest we weaken our whole economy and hence our military strength.

To concentrate our effort in the best places, Mr. Pearson warns, "may involve drastic and even revolutionary changes. . . We should not hesitate to make those changes if they are necessary. But we should be as sure as is humanly possible that they are necessary before making them and that we are changing to something that will stand the test of new developments."

As an illustration, Mr. Pearson says we should not switch from the CF-105 interceptor planes to the American Bomarc missiles merely because the interceptors are likely to be inadequate five years from now, or because they are expensive. We should also be reasonably sure that the Bomarc will fill the bill.

If there must be a total re-calculation of military effort there must also be, says Mr. Pearson, a total re-calculation of political and economic effort.

Politically there must be a re-unification of the free world, a reconstruction of the grand alliance of which the North Atlantic nations are the essential core. And to this end a new economic unity must be devised, since there can be no military strength without a firm economic underpinning.

Mr. Pearson has never doubted and has continually affirmed that economic strength in the free world can come only from two sources.

First, the production and wealth of the democracies must be maximized by the fullest possible exchange of goods between them. Any barriers that restrict that exchange, though they may temporarily benefit some special interest, must weaken the general interest economically and divide the alliance politically.

Second, the rich Western nations must build up collective and constructive trade and aid relationships with the friendly or neutral underdeveloped countries. Their aid to these countries must be given without any political or military strings.

In the end, of course, these projects of aid cannot succeed unless the Western nations are prepared to buy the increasing products of their poorer friends. Otherwise there will be no markets for the new industries built in Asia, for example, and the Asiatic peoples will be driven toward Russia and China, which will accept their goods, if necessary even at a loss.

If, says Mr. Pearson, the Western nations cannot unify their foreign and economic policies, as well as their military policies, then the coalition will break up and we will leave the field in politics and economics to the Communists.

This is a dire warning but can any thoughtful man call it invalid? The Canadian Government undoubtedly would agree with Mr. Pearson in principle concerning all these points and it must be prepared to face the consequences of this iron logic, not merely in eloquent words but in actual policy.

An adequate policy will involve drastic and painful shifts on the military and economic planes.

If the Government has the courage to undertake them it can count on the intelligence of the Canadian people. Certainly it should have and, from Mr. Pearson, will have the support of the Opposition. For we are not playing here with the small change of party politics. We are playing with the highest blue chips of safety and survival.

Silly Plan

The proposal recently made by the Minister of Agriculture in Victoria to colonize the north country by offering prospective settlers loans of $750 for three years, is so obviously silly that no one is likely to be bamboozled by it.

The deputy minister, who must probably bear some responsibility for it, in view of the well known inexperience of the minister, has publicly stated that, in his opinion, there is no place in agriculture for the small or part-time operator, and that agriculture in B.C. would be better off without them.

For some years the policies of the department have been consistently and effectively directed toward the elimination of such farmers from the agricultural scene. Witness the elimination of about 600 dairy farmers in the Fraser Valley; the abandonment of potato growing by about 150 out of 250 farmers on Vancouver Island during the last few years (figures from the B.C. Coast Vegetable Marketing Board); the elimination of about half of the producer distributors of milk on Vancouver Island, and the unmistakable evidence of the progressive disintegration of the whole dairying industry.

These casualties are not the result of general adverse economic conditions, but are the direct result of oppressive and destructive government policies based upon the personal opinions of a deputy minister with a one track mind, and also the blatant determination of a government that is determined to exploit agriculture with its low voting power for the purpose of political gain.

In view of the above, can anyone suppose that the proposal to settle colonists 1,000 miles from markets with negligible resources is in good faith?

The only reasonable explanation for the scheme is that it is in the nature of an indirect subsidy for the PGE, which must find some traffic for its miles of line through the wilderness.

GEORGE WYNDLOW,
Ladysmith, B.C.

THE RECURRING URGE

Living Under Wraps, But Still Living

WITH almost predictable regularity news headlines are made by some quiet individual who after a lifetime of sober propriety jumps over the traces, blows his top, shoots the works and rings the bell.

In other words he gives in at last to some long-suppressed urge, does what he's wanted to do all the time, and he's glad, glad, glad. It isn't usually a case of "I done it fer th' wife an' kids" either. The pattern seems to be one of self-indulgence on the grand scale. And the odd part of it all is that most newspaper readers, learning of these bizarre goings-on, have a sneaking sympathy for the wrongdoers even while tut-tutting their fall from grace. They're just so darn human, is the comment. And everyone silently admits, "There but for the grace of God. . ."

Most readers will recall various examples of this phenomenon. There was the New York bus driver who one spring day without warning dumped his passengers and set out for Florida. As I remember it, he was located some time afterwards and restored to his job by an understanding company—with due regard for his previous years of exemplary service.

Breaking Point

Then there was the London bus driver who tired of his job and the incessant chatter of his passengers, pulled in to the curb, parked and walked away, a free man.

Such items crop up from time to time and seem to stir a fellow-feeling in all of us.

A little more ambitious, but along the same lines, was the recent escapee of an Ontario bank teller who, after years of quiet application to the work of his employers suddenly walked out one weekend with upwards of a quarter of a million dollars.

With the adroitness and ease of one of Alec Guinness' characterizations he made his getaway and embarked on a career of airline travel in the United States, interspersed with visits to night clubs and attempts to win friends in bars by buying for the house.

At the end of 17 days he had spent less than $30,000, and the rest of his currency, packed in a suitcase, must have become something of an encumbrance. He was relieved of the problem, though, when police picked him up in a night club.

He had wanted to live it up and meet lots of people, he said. He seemed a little astonished that even with all that money he had not been able to meet very many.

Well, that's the crime of course, and on a grand scale. But who, reading an account of the incident, does not feel a little sympathy for the misguided teller?

Dream Stuff

Both the urge to get out of a rut and the rather pathetic hope that with lots of money at his command he would soon be rolling in friends and gaiety, are a part of nearly everyone's occasional dreams. This fellow tried to make his dream come true. But as in so many dreams he never quite caught what he was chasing—the awakening came too soon.

I imagine that one of the growing problems in an increasingly beehive-like economy will be to provide some outlet for the suppressed desires of the human bees. There will have to be either more effective training for work, which will enable the job to produce more human satisfaction, or more effective training for the leisure which increasing automation will inevitably create.

Can a home workshop hobby be made to take the place of a deep desire to splurge ill-gotten gains on a tour of nightclubs? Will three days a week off, with scientifically devised activities filling the off-days, be sufficient to make a man content to drive a bus through heavy city traffic for the other four, with never a longing to head for the open road and the distant fields?

Perhaps it can be done. The vast majority of us are able to squelch the urge without any special effort. Like an old pair of shoes our ruts fit comfortably and guide our feet in the direction they are supposed to go. It would not take much scientific influence to eradicate any possibility of a slip-up.

Inner Flame

But it will be a great pity if the occasional urge must be completely destroyed. Man will have lost a valuable ingredient if he feels no quickening pulse when the geese fly high overhead in the autumn twilight, their trailing V-formations pointing like wavering arrows towards far places and high adventure.

Man will be a lesser creature, a step lower down the scale, when he does not feel a stir of excitement as a great liner, her lights gleaming, glides from the dockside and heads out into the summer night, whence already the breeze brings a faint hint of palm-treed isles, spice-breathing jungles and surf breaking on a coral shore.

He will be the poorer if his heart does not lift to see an airliner passing overhead, a flash of brilliance on its metal wings; to hear a steam train's whistle echo through a cleft in the mountains, or the throb of a ship's propellers passing close to shore in the night.

Circumstances may prevent any action in response to such stimuli, but the feeling must be there, the longing—however sternly suppressed—must rise, the imagination must be kindled even though immediately checked. For if there is no response at all a large part of what makes us human will have died, and with it eventually the hopes of all the imaginative arts whose practice raises man above the vegetable.

U.N. Force Successful

By MICHAEL ADAMS

ON November 5, 1956, the General Assembly of the United Nations voted into existence an international force "to secure and supervise the cessation of hostilities" between Egypt and Israel. The swift Sinai campaign was over on the ground, the Suez Canal was blocked, and on the same day British and French paratroopers landed in Port Said.

The situation facing the United Nations was one of infinite complexity, and few people saw in the embryonic United Nations Emergency Force an instrument capable of resolving it.

Today, after two years of vigorous life, UNEF has served its original purpose and still guards the peace along the armistice line between Egypt and Israel. In addition it has provided the world with the first successful prototype for an international police force.

Of those who had faith in the idea of UNEF, two men were well placed to put it into effect.

One was Mr. Lester Pearson, then Canadian Foreign Minister, who had long been urging the formation of such an emergency force to lend weight to the decisions of the United Nations, and who suggested this solution at an emergency meeting of the General Assembly on November 1, 1956.

The other was Mr. Hammarskjold, who as Secretary-General accepted the mandate of the Assembly to submit plans for an international force, and who, having won the Assembly's approval on November 5, put these plans into execution with such speed that ten days later the necessary diplomatic preliminaries had been completed and the first contingent landed in Egypt.

First Glimpse

My first glimpse of UNEF was in February, 1957, when it had already completed the first phase of its task, by supervising the withdrawal of the British and French forces from Port Said.

From the Canal Zone UNEF had spread out into the Sinai peninsula, and was following the Israeli forces in their slow retreat towards Gaza and the armistice line.

This second phase was to end a week or two later, and since then UNEF has patrolled the armistice line and prevented any further raiding by either side into the territory of the other.

In those days, when it was only three months old, UNEF still had the air of an astonishingly successful improvisation.

The last of the ten national contingents which were ultimately chosen to take part in it (23 countries had offered to send troops) had only arrived on February 12. It consisted of 500 Brazilians, and brought the total strength of UNEF to almost six thousand, of which the largest detachments came from Canada and India, the smallest from the four Scandinavian countries, and the others from Colombia, Yugoslavia, and Indonesia.

Apart from their blue berets there was scarcely any common denominator among them, and there were obvious difficulties of language and professional or even social practice. Relations with the Egyptian authorities were uncertain, and were to grow worse when the Israelis finally abandoned Gaza early in March, 1957, and a dispute threatened over the question of who should be responsible for the administration of the Gaza strip with its quarter of a million Palestinian refugees.

Firmly Established

Today UNEF is firmly established and on excellent terms with the Egyptian Government. Indeed its success in executing the task entrusted to it by the General Assembly has been a factor in the general improvement of relations between the Egyptians and other United Nations organizations (the main factor has been the energy and impartiality of Mr. Hammarskjold).

The blue berets are familiar now, and reassuring. They are in Egypt with the Egyptians' permission, and the Egyptians know their value as well as anyone.

Visiting UNEF again a week or two ago, I found few changes on the surface, but a far more assured air of practiced routine in its functioning. What might have been the same little clumps of Scandinavian or Indian or Colombian soldiers stood guard in the chain of outposts along the border of the Gaza strip, training their binoculars (with a concentration that was slightly self-conscious under the visitors' eyes) on the empty landscape of Israel.

But behind them the network of platoon and company positions reaching back to the headquarters in Gaza, with its administrative base at Rafah, and its air transport and signals base at El Arish, had no longer any look of improvisation about it; transport and supply were organized on what was evidently a tried and successful pattern.

Contrasting Units

The celebrations which marked United Nations day in Gaza were full of contrasts. In the parade which was held on Gaza's dusty airstrip (within a mile or so of the nearest Israeli kibbutz) all the contingents joined in a march-past to salute the United Nations flag with the Yugoslavs providing an armored detachment. Canadian pilots flying in formation overhead, and a splendid Indian pipe band bringing up the rear ("Over the Sea to Skye" sounding out strangely in the bright Mediterranean sunshine).

When the Indian Chief of Staff, Colonel I. J. Rikhye, deputizing for General Burns, spoke to the men of UNEF after taking the salute, there was no rhetoric in his description of the "unique task" given to UNEF by the General Assembly, or when he told them that this first truly international force was "symbolic of the hopes and desires of mankind."

Nor could one quarrel with his claim that the best proof of the efficacy of the UNEF experiment was "the absence of any major incident along the border since the force was established."

Trimming B.C.'s Wooden Nickel

THE DIRECT RELATIONSHIP between freight rates and British Columbia's chief industry has been concisely defined in an analysis made earlier this year by Mr. A. P. MacBean, chief forester for MacMillan & Bloedel Limited.

Speaking to the B.C. Natural Resources Conference, Mr. MacBean pointed out that this province produces about half of all Canada's lumber but sells only 13 per cent in the prairies and eastern provinces.

"Coast lumber shipments to the east have fallen 50 per cent since 1947," Mr. MacBean reported, "coinciding with rising rail freight charges which are up nearly 80 per cent in the same period."

The forester noted the projections made by the Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects in 1956. They indicated that the present Canadian population of 15.5 million would rise to 26.6 million in 1980. Production of forest products in the same time would nearly double, but the proportion exported would be slightly smaller, according to the report.

Canada could look forward to domestic lumber requirements up about 50 per cent and to some increase in exports.

"The share which will be gained by B.C. will depend," said Mr. MacBean, "upon our ability to meet competition. Higher freight charges, wages and government charges must be overcome."

That informed opinion provides its own commentary on the influence which the most recent freight rate ruling will have on the resource producing roughly half the British Columbia dollar.

New Deal in Prison

MR. DAVIE FULTON, MINISTER of Justice, has indicated clearly that new developments in treatment of prisoners will not remove punitive or disciplinary elements from Canada's penal system. At the same time the establishment of a new penal reform section within the department of justice promises a considerable improvement over present and past methods of treatment.

The federal government is taking over the responsibility for all prison inmates serving more than one year. New institutions will be built and a new program of custody, treatment and training aimed at rehabilitation is to be inaugurated.

This seems a sensible approach to one of Canada's major problems. It is not enough merely to shut convicted persons away from the world, force them to serve a certain amount of time in custody and then turn them loose, unimproved, to resume the lives they led up to the time of their arrest.

No one should imagine that a more enlightened approach to reforming the prisoner will be one hundred per cent successful. In many cases the human material on which reform efforts are made is inferior in mental and social content. Some prisoners lack the essentials that make up the potentially good citizen.

On the other hand, if the new program can inspire a proper response from the better type of inmate—if it can give him an acceptable sense of values and the will as well as the opportunity to prepare himself for a useful life after prison, it will have double virtue.

Not only will it restore the individual to a place in the world, it will have direct economic benefit. It will save society the cost of recapturing him following a reversion to his pre-prison ways, trying him and then keeping him at state expense for the duration of his sentence.

The idea behind the new plan makes sense. Its application will be followed with interest.

Only Candidate

The Victoria Ratepayers' Association Executive announces that Mrs. Sally Rogers has again consented to be our one and only candidate for City Council. Mrs. Rogers sensible program last year was heartily endorsed by the Victoria Ratepayers Association and once again, she has introduced a fine platform.

'Brother, Are You Kidding?'

The topic of the moment is whether we in B.C. should have public or private ownership of all utilities.

I come from a city in the east where the province took over the light, heat and power company with a token payment to the common stock shareholder. The idea was that the profits paid to the shareholders as dividends would be ploughed back into the business to give the consumer cheaper gas and electricity. Are they today paying less for these services? Brother, are you kidding?

Some time later they also took over the transit company, which was one of their largest customers for power. At the time fares were four tickets for a quarter with a 10 cents cash fare. Today the fare is 60 cents for four tickets with a 20 cents cash fare.

If the people of Victoria are ready to travel the same road, do they also expect these services will be cheaper? They will be in for a rude awakening.

ACCOUNTANT.

For the Birds

After following with interest the case of Mr. Frank Beebe's falcon and the killing of a seagull, it was with relief that I read in the press that (Mr. Beebe) had been proved not guilty.

From Our Files

Nov. 24, 1898 — Duluth: Two ships, Tampa and Arthur Orr, were wrecked on the shore of Lake Superior and represented a loss of about $450,000, including ships and cargo.

Nov. 24, 1918 — Strassburg: Gen. Gouraud entered this city yesterday at head of the French army, and was met by cheers from all of the 300,000 populace. Enthusiasm was a terrific.

Nov. 24, 1938 — Berlin: Suicides among Jews were reported increasing today before the mounting intensity of the Nazi anti-Semitic drive.

Facts and the Truth

I HAVE such a fellow feeling for a woman whose letter to the editor appeared in last Wednesday's Times.

She was writing about the present state of provincial politics, and she said, in part: "I am just a simple housewife, not overly endowed with brains. I don't pretend to understand big business. But I do love this province and my country. I do want to leave a heritage for my children and theirs."

That's exactly how I feel, and I'm certain that many British Columbians (men and women) feel the same.

We're worried and unhappy about the present Government of this province. Quite simply, we don't trust it.

We've been thoroughly shaken by the Sommers case, and even more shaken by the fact that it took us close to three years to get the truth.

We've read Mr. Bonner's statement to the press, and it seemed to us a pretty poor defence for his delay.

We've read or listened on the radio to Mr. Bennett's recent speech at Sidney, and we've wished that he would give us facts instead of non-constructive vilifications of the press.

In a crisis—and the Lord knows this is a crisis—we don't want a lot of shouting and smiling. We want a calm, quiet impartial voice giving us cold hard facts.

We may not be overly bright, but when a man of Mr. Briggs' position puts his job on the line and produces figures to back up his assertions, we're inclined to think that he's telling the truth.

And when his opponents' defence takes the form of suggesting that the man is mentally unstable, we just don't believe it. In fact, it's such a filthy, low-down crack that it makes us deeply angry and more than ever suspicious that something very rotten is going on.

And when Mr. Bonner says that—apart from one or two individuals on papers—the people of this province don't want an election, we can't square this assertion with what we hear in stores and cafes and private homes.

This Royal Commission doesn't reassure us entirely. For we know enough to know that a commission's terms of reference are important. (If during the inquiry, a question comes up that is not within the terms of reference, then it cannot be discussed.)

And this commission's terms of reference are much too narrow to suit the present public mood.

We don't want to be limited to the cost structure of the B.C. Power Commission.

We want to know about the whole power setup in the province.

We want to know the answers to all the questions raised by Mr. Briggs in his four recent controversial statements.

We want these answers and we'll not be content until we get them. For, at last, too many of us are anxious and determined to know the truth, the whole truth.

Nothing short of the whole truth will do.

PM Garlanded With Orchids

TOO BUSY in his first month as pontiff to make any personal plans, Pope John XXIII will be 77 Tuesday—and may have to be reminded. Older at the time of his election than any other newly elected pope since Clement XII, who was 78 in 1730 when he became pontiff, Pope John had worked with an energy that belies his years, with a work schedule allowing only six hours sleep a night.

COLOMBO, Ceylon (CP)—The birthplace of the Colombo Plan greeted Prime Minister Diefenbaker today on his arrival for a three-day visit to this lush and humid island.

Prime Minister Solomon Bandaranaike welcomed him at the airport on his arrival from New Delhi as the leader of a country "which has been very generous to us in the assistance she has given with no strings attached."

The Canadian leader, garlanded with orchids from Bandaranaike's son Anura, replied that he has come "to better appreciate your problems and possibly make some contribution to their solution."

SCHOOL CHILDREN CHEER

Along the drive into the city, the road was lined by Cingalese, many of them uniformed school children waving paper flags and cheering.

Diefenbaker paid formal calls on Governor-General Sir Oliver Goonetilleke at his residence, where the Canadian leader is staying, and then called on Bandaranaike. Tonight he was to attend a reception given by the Canadian high commissioner and later a dinner given by the governor-general.

Before leaving New Delhi after a six-day state visit to India, Diefenbaker told reporters he is planning to send engineers to help India's development plans.

OFFICIAL FAREWELL

Prime Minister Nehru, cabinet ministers and foreign diplomats were at the airport to say farewell to the Canadian leader.

After Diefenbaker left, Nehru talked informally to reporters. Referring to front-page stories in Delhi's morning papers saying Diefenbaker had offered his good offices to settle the Kashmir dispute between India and Pakistan, Nehru said that during his talks with the Canadian leader, the word Kashmir was not mentioned.

Massey Catches Cold In Victoria Weather

VANCOUVER (CP)—Governor-General Massey left Vancouver on Saturday night after a five-day centennial-year visit to British Columbia. He had a sore throat but seemed to be in good spirits as he boarded his train for Ottawa.

Mr. Massey, 71, is believed to have suffered a chill during his Victoria tour. On his return to Vancouver on Friday a doctor was called in and he was advised to forego the remaining tours on his agenda here.

The governor-general, in his first visit to B.C. in two years, officiated Wednesday at a ceremony commemorating the birth of B.C. at Fort Langley Nov. 19, 1858.

He visited Victoria Thursday and Friday.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Tailor to the Queen

LONDON—There's a new name you'll be hearing a lot about with regard to the Queen's clothes—Driscoll.

John Driscoll has been granted a Royal warrant, which entitles him to put above the door of his shop the Royal coat of arms and the "By Appointment" sign which indicates to all and sundry that he makes clothes for the Queen, not to mention Princess Margaret and the Queen Mother.

Does this mean the end of Hartnell as the Queen's Dressmaker?

At first, people here have been confused about the apparent switch. But it seems the operational word is "dressmaker." Hartnell will continue to be the official maker of dresses for the Royal womenfolk, but Driscoll now becomes the Queen's tailor, i.e., he'll supply suits, coats, kilts and sports clothes.

In fact, he's hard at it already, making numerous trips up to Buckingham Palace from his newly established shop in fashionable Eastbourne on the Sussex coast.

It's no novelty for the Queen to be fitted by Driscoll for suits and other tailored wear, including those skirts in the Balmoral tartan that you've seen her wearing many a time in news pictures. The only thing new about it is that Driscoll now gets a credit line.

He formerly did this work as a member of the staff of Norman Hartnell. They came to a parting of the ways.

Those continental scooters are certainly having an effect on the appearance of traffic in these parts. As I mentioned the other day, their popularity has forced die-hard British motorbike manufacturers to copy them by enclosing the engine, fitting anti-splash shields, wind protectors on the handlebars, etc.

Now one of the big push-bike manufacturers is following suit. They've brought out what they call the Scooped—mudguards encasing most of each wheel, splash and wind protection, chain entirely encased, a retractable strut for parking.

With its fibreglas body, it's nothing like the old bike I used to have as a kid—except that you still have to pump the pedals.

Also New—Noiseless car doors. Not on the market yet, but early in the new year doors that you can slam with barely a sound will be included in even the cheaper model cars.

At long last England's theatre censorship has grown up. Under the autocratic control of the Lord Chamberlain no play dealing with homosexuality was ever allowed public performance and mention of it was slashed from the dialogue of any other play.

That was why such Broadway hits as The View From the Bridge and Tea and Sympathy automatically went on the banned list here. But the Lord Chamberlain has had a change of heart and lifted the taboo, because "the subject is now so widely discussed."

SYNOPSIS—A vicious little storm roared inland across the Washington coast early this morning and should reach Montana this afternoon. Skies cleared rapidly along the south coast as the system moved inland and this clearing will spread to the southern interior by afternoon. However, despite the appearance of the sun in the south it will be a chilly day. In the north, although there will be some morning cloud, the cold settled weather of the past few days will continue. The situation offshore is still confused but it appears likely that by evening in that area another system will be sweeping toward the coast with rain or snow likely to recur.

LIFE OF MACKENZIE KING

New PM Chooses a Cabinet

Serialization of this new and official unpublished biography of Mackenzie King is being run daily Monday to Friday in the news columns of the Times and in Saturday's Weekend Magazine.

By ROBERT MacGREGOR DAWSON

After the election of 1921 the Liberals were one short of a majority of the House, although the Liberal and the Independent Liberal would give them the majority they needed.

They had elected members from every province except Alberta and had carried three provinces — Quebec, Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward Island — with out the loss of a seat. Ontario had given them 21 out of 82, but west of Ontario they had carried only six: three in British Columbia, two in Manitoba, one in Saskatchewan. The Conservatives had ceased to exist as a national party in any representative sense, for they had failed to elect a single member from six provinces. All but 13 of their members came from Ontario, which had elected 37 Conservatives.

The Progressives had captured 38 seats out of 43 on the Prairies, 24 in Ontario, one from British Columbia, and one from New Brunswick.

The election yielded two unusual phenomena. There were no less than 143 three-cornered contests for the 235 seats — an unprecedented number in Canadian parliamentary history. Even more remarkable was the high concentration of the party strength in certain provinces: Liberal East, Progressive West, and a divided Ontario. Such an unbalanced distribution would obviously make it very difficult to select a Cabinet which would represent all the geographical areas in the nation.

Passed Test

The election had settled decisively, however, one vital question: the next head of the government would be Mackenzie King. He had passed triumphantly the first severe test as leader, and it now remained to see how he would acquit himself in the next and more crucial test as Prime Minister.

The election returns were barely in before King was confronted with one of the major problems of his new position, the selection of the members of his Cabinet.

He addressed himself to this task very consciously of the two major objectives which he had kept constantly before him since his election as leader: the restoration of the Liberal party as an effective instrument in the government of Canada, and the maintenance and strengthening of his position as the head of that party. In the process of forming a Cabinet the first objective was to be fostered by giving careful recognition to both the Laurier and the Unionist Liberals, and also by endeavoring to make the Cabinet as inclusive as possible, representative of the many interests and areas which might be prepared to combine and work together under a somewhat vaguely defined and unifying Liberal philosophy.

Brotherhood

What was this "liberalism" which King thought would unite in one brotherhood the farmers, the trade unionists, the Laurier Liberals, and all men of goodwill?

If one were to consult his speeches and his many references to the rights of the people, "free and responsible government," and so forth, one might suppose that his was an orthodox laissez-faire liberalism or some mild modification of it. It would be closer to reality, however, to think of King's liberalism as being less theoretical and having a much more practical bent.

Negatively, it was expressed as a hatred of entrenched privilege and special position, unless this was able to justify itself by good works and the willing assumption of responsibilities, and as a suspicion of great wealth unless, again, accompanied by a strong social conscience. Positively, his liberalism spoke for the essential worth, dignity, and importance of the common man.

Humanitarian

He was a genuine humanitarian, who believed that while the rights of the individual were extremely important, "the greatest good of the greatest number" must be preferred to that of the few. He was thus a sincere advocate of social reform and wished to bring about a greater degree of social equality.

The traditional abstract rights and liberties of the citizen were excellent and must be preserved, but he wished also to secure many concrete benefits as well: an adequate reward for labor, shorter working hours, the representation of labor in industry, unemployment insurance, old age pensions, health insurance and the like.

Pragmatist

Although King's words might not always suggest it, he was at heart a pragmatist who was primarily concerned with achieving concrete results: he frequently talked in vague generalities, but his aims could be extremely practical.

His speeches abound in platitudes, abstract terms, and high sounding and often empty phrases, and these he found extremely useful since they helped him to evoke the appropriate stereotypes in widely different groups of people, and also enabled him to command a large measure of agreement without which all projects would necessarily fall to the ground. The same intangible quality of many of his pronouncements also had the solid advantage of leaving little for his enemies to seize upon and use against him.

His program was founded on his inner convictions of its social worthiness plus a shrewd appraisal of its timeliness, both as a political bond and as an issue-likely to command popular support.

Two Functions

This attitude of Mackenzie King to political questions cannot be fully understood until one has grasped his conception of the role which the political party should perform in a democracy, and particularly in the Canadian democracy. He considered that the parties in Canada had two major functions: the propagation and carrying out of ideas and policies, and the bringing together of diverse and even conflicting groups and interests so as to secure a working agreement and a measure of common action.

The second function was in his eyes even more important than the first; indeed, its operation might necessitate party principles being temporarily shelved or substantially modified in order to secure the necessary consent among the rival forces within the party — the highest common factor on which all could unite.

Concessions

Such a conciliatory and mollifying influence was indispensable in a country like Canada where the bonds of national unity were weak and the centrifugal forces of race, religion, geography, economic interests, etc., were unusually strong; these, if not held in some restraint, might quite conceivably disrupt the state itself.

King's belief in the party system and his conviction that the party was the necessary means for achieving popular consent thus led him at times to make enormous concessions to preserve the unity of the Liberal party.

King's political talents worked to bring together a many-sided group in his first cabinet, with one paramount (and temporary) failure. T. A. Crerar and the Progressives stayed out.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadian curling champion Matt Baldwin of Edmonton came up with a pair of 9-8 victories on Sunday in two primary events in the fourth annual $10,000 Totem Bonspiel, but several other favorites faltered at the start.

Moving into the second day's play with unblemished records with Baldwin were Reg Stone of Trail, five-time B.C. champion; Al Derrett, Winnipeg, veteran bonspiel competitor; Frank Avery, veteran Vancouver curler, and Ken Anderson, Calgary, 1957 Totem champion.

Dropping one of his two opening-day games was Tony Gutoski of Victoria, 1958 British Columbia champion, an extra-end 9-8 decision to Keith Descon, veteran New Westminster player.

SENSATIONAL DRAW
 A sensational draw shot that slipped around two well-placed guards and stopped inches away from the button gave Deacon his extra-end win over Gutoski. The loss was a tough one for Gutoski, who gave up four points in the ninth and came back with a single in the 10th to force another end.

Boot Loop Delays Verdict on City Bid

Victoria will have to wait until the annual meeting of the Pacific Coast Soccer League, Dec. 7, before finding out if an application for a PSCL franchise has been approved.

The application was submitted, along with two from mainland teams, at a league meeting in Vancouver Sunday.

With the annual meeting only two weeks away league officials decided to table the applications, along with re-applications from the present entrants, until a new executive had been named.

LEAGUE MANAGER
 It was also decided at the Sunday meeting that the league would adopt a new position in the executive, that of league manager, at the annual meeting.

The two other franchise applications came from Vancouver Capilans, mainland first division champions last season, and Wallace Athletic Club, champions of the third division.

Members of the six-team loop last summer were Carlings, St. Andrews, Halcos and Hungaria of Vancouver, New Westminster Royals and Nanaimo. All indicated Sunday that they are ready to operate for another season, but Nanaimo and Hungaria applications will be reviewed before the annual meeting.

SPONSOR NOT NAMED
 If Victoria is accepted as a league member it will mean the end of a three-year PCSL drought here.

Announcement of the name of the Victoria sponsor has not been made and is not expected until after formal acceptance of the team by the league.

The Victoria and District Football League executive explains that Nanaimo had announced their sponsor prior to being accepted by the league last season and had a mainland team "steal" the sponsor from them.

Golf Buttons Change Hands At Gorge Vale
 Roy Chappell and Jim McColl, a Gorge Vale partnership, seem to like the idea of playing for Victoria District Golf Association buttons.

The youthful golfers lost their hold on the junior buttons Sunday, losing 4 and 3 to clubmates Al MacLeod and Bill Wakeham, so now they'll try for the open buttons next Sunday.

Chappell and McColl will meet Mel Carlow and Norm Boden, another Gorge pairing who dethroned Gord Pellow and Al Reside, one up. The Uplands pair lost the first two holes and could never recover in the match at Gorge Vale.

Rock-Ribbed Defence Halts St. Francis Bid
FORT WILLIAM, Ont. (UPI)—Fort William Redskins won the Canadian intermediate football championship in their fifth try Sunday, downing St. Francis Xavier University 10-0 before 3,000 fans in a bitterly fought defensive struggle.

Champions of the west, the Redskins played in four previous Canadian finals without success, losing to Montreal in 1953, Peterboro in 1955, Hamilton in 1956 and Shearwater Flyers last year.

Lakehead scoring champion, full-back Bruno Grobelney, picked up the game's lone touchdown in the third quarter from the nine-yard line after a long downfield march. Eddie Kruppa kicked three singles and the convert.

A stout Redskin defensive team held the youthful Xavarians off the scoreboard, coming up with the big plays when their goal line was threatened.

Four times St. Francis moved inside the Redskins' 35-yard line only to be turned back.

Colts Closing In On Division Title

NEW YORK (CP)—Johnny Unitas, a colt with a heavy-calibre passing arm, is healthy again.

Just how healthy he showed Sunday, shooting down the title bid of Los Angeles Rams and passing Baltimore to a eighth win in nine National Football League games. Baltimore now leads the Western Conference by two games with only three to play.

And Bobby Mitchell, Cleveland's young blur, is zooming toward acclaim as pro football's rookie of the year.

He looked it Sunday, shaking loose for a 98-yard touchdown-run on the opening kickoff, then coming back in the same quarter with a 69-yard score on a punt return as the Browns whipped the Philadelphia Eagles, 28-14.

Cleveland, with a 7-2 record, leads the Eastern Conference by one game with three remaining.

FIRST TITLE CRACK
 Baltimore's appearance in a pro title game would be its first. If Cleveland also wins a division title, the game would be played at Cleveland Dec. 28.

In Sunday's other games New York Giants stayed a game behind Cleveland with a 30-0 victory over the Washington Redskins, and the Pittsburgh Steelers, another game to the rear, hung on to the Giants' tail with a 27-20 triumph over the Chicago Cardinals.

In the west, Chicago Bears took over sole possession of second place by beating Detroit Lions, 20-7, while Los Angeles faltered. The Lions' defeat eliminated the defending world champions from title consideration. The San Francisco 49ers moved past them into fourth place with a 33-12 victory over the last-place Green Bay Packers.

Extra Crown Police Bonus

Oak Bay Police started out by racing Campbell River Raiders for the Vancouver Island juvenile football championship and wound up a two-game series with their handcuffs on the provincial championship.

Oak Bay, displaying plenty of depth and benefits of good coaching, stopped the Raiders 27-13 Sunday to capture the Island crown by a 40-25 score in the two-game final.

Sunday's victory also enabled the young Policemen the opportunity to claim the B.C. title since an attempt to stage a provincial playoff fell through. Officials of a Chilliwack juvenile team, which was to play Oak Bay next weekend, announced they would not be able to challenge the Island winners.

Pinpoint passing of quarterback Murray Halkett to halfback Murray Superle and authoritative charges by fullback Jack Heath proved the difference between the teams Sunday. Superle pulled down two Halkett passes for majors and Heath scored another pair in addition to three converts.

George Graham converted his own TD in the fourth quarter to go with Dennis Tipper's unconverted score in the third for Campbell River.

Heath opened scoring to give Oak Bay a lead of 7-0 after the first quarter and 13-0 at the half.

In a juvenile exhibition at Nanaimo Sunday, Mayo Vampires rambled to a 20-6 decision over Nanaimo on touchdowns by Ray Latta, Barry Hodgkins and Gordy Janes and three converts by Robin Barnes.

Oarsmen Have Sad Weekend

James Bay Athletic Association put in a rough Victoria Rugby Union weekend, dropping two games in as many days and losing their league lead to Oak Bay Reds.

Playing their second game in two days, the oarsmen dropped a 9-3 decision to a fired-up Royal Roads crew, Sunday, at Royal Roads. Their only points came in the second half on a penalty kick by Gary Pynn.

Pynn came within inches of giving the Bays a draw Saturday when they lost by a 3-0 count to Oak Bay at Windsor Park.

HIT CROSSBAR

Behind, 3-0, after Chris Polard plunged three yards for an unconverted try, the Oarsmen had a chance to even the count in the second half on a penalty kick. Pynn's boot struck the crossbar and bounded high in the air, barely failing to come down between the posts.

In the Sunday encounter John Fellow, with two tries, and D. MacKenzie, with a penalty kick, took care of the Cadet's scoring.

In other union activity Saturday, Victoria College lost a 6-3 decision to HMCS Venture at Carnarvon Park.

Venture scoring was handled by Ken Hutchinson, who booted a penalty kick in each half. Russ Chambers scored an unconverted try for the Collegians.

Two exhibition games were also played Saturday. Oak Bay White losing 33-0 to the University of British Columbia at Vancouver and Victoria High School dropping a 3-0 verdict to an HMCS Venture team at HMCS Naden.

Stars Feel Power Of Clipper Punch

Victoria's Commercial Hockey League All-Stars came out a distant second in their first test of strength with Pacific Coast Amateur Hockey League competition.

All-Stars took a 17-5 lacing from Nanaimo Clippers in an exhibition game at Nanaimo Saturday night.

Most of the trouble for the Victorians was cooked up by Bud Dumont, leading scorer in the Coast loop. Dumont set a blistering pace for the Clippers, scoring five goals and assisting on three other tallies.

Toby Wilson was the top sniper for All-Stars. Wilson

McRae Back On Pin Throne

Cec McRae climbed back into the Capital City Bowling Alleys championship fivepin throne Saturday when he defeated defending titlist Bill Atkinson with a 792 score.

Atkinson rolled 726 in the final series while Reg Waggoner slipped from 792 in the eliminations to 713 and Roy Jago dropped from 810 to 622.

With Atkinson drawing a bye through the eliminations, McRae bowled an 845 series to qualify to regain the crown he has held through most of this season's competition.

Victoria High School placed five runners in the top ten finishers Saturday to capture the Admiral Nelles Trophy in the annual Royal Roads Invitational cross-country race at Royal Roads.

Ten teams and 72 runners took part in the 4.3-mile grind, which was won by Vic High's Tom Burgess in a time of 21 minutes, 57 seconds. The course was made more difficult than usual by rain, wind, mud and a pair of fallen trees.

Behind Burgess, with a time of 22.06, came Royal Roads' Albert Pchajek.

Places seven to 10 were filled with Vic High entrants, in order: Jim Robertson

'Cannibalism' Charged To Socreds

The B.C. government is turning on its own power agency in an "act of cannibalism," Burnaby CCF MLA Gordon Dowling said over the weekend.

He said the new royal commission established to probe B.C. Power Commission is a "political red herring" meant to evade the real issue in the recent charges by H. Lee Briggs—public versus private power.

"It is disappointing to me that the premier has not seen fit to inquire into the real essence of Mr. Briggs' charges of a sellout to the Wenner-Gren interests and the peculiar position of the B.C. Electric in regard to the supply of electrical energy in B.C."

China for being "against political coexistence" and said the Peiping regime's newly formed communes had "nothing in common with Marxism."

Tito told a cheering crowd of 10,000 persons in Slovenia he believed the current Soviet bloc campaign against Yugoslavia would "last a long time."

Attacks against the Tito regime, often spearheaded by Communist China, criticize Yugoslavia's determination to take an independent "road to socialism" free from obligation to either the Kremlin or the West.

Tito said the leading role played by China in the bitter campaign launched against Yugoslavia "revisionism" was probably aimed at "some others."

Observers said this presumably referred to the Soviet Union itself.

Tito compared the Soviet attacks on Yugoslavia with German propaganda during the war and said they were aimed at splitting Yugoslavia's Communist leadership from the people through "various slanders."

His country would not break its ties with Western countries nor would it stop being a socialist country.

'59 Ford Light and Medium Duty Models, like the handsome Styleside pickup above, offer you a choice of Canada's only modern "oversquare" truck Six and more powerful but thrifty V-8's. Through the line there are 12 engines—each a modern money-saver.

'59 Ford Extra Heavies, like this husky T-950, feature the unique Super Duty V-8's. Capacities range up to 51,000 lb. max. GVW, 75,000 lb. max. GCW in the tandems. Conventional and tilt cab models available up to 36,000 lb. GVW, 65,000 lb. GCW.

It's a simple money-saving fact: '59 FORD TRUCKS OFFER YOU CANADA'S MOST MODERN TRUCK ENGINES SIX or V-8

Ford's outstanding advances in truck engine design boost gas mileage and extend engine life

You don't have to be an engineer to understand Ford's basic truck engine improvements. Or to see that in every horsepower class, from 139 hp to 277 hp, they add up to your best buy for high gas mileage, dependable performance and long engine life.

Here's one of the important facts: only Ford makes a truck Six that's "oversquare." In other words, a Six with a stroke that's shorter than the piston bore diameter.

Here's why "oversquare" design cuts your costs

The shorter the piston stroke is, the less friction there is between the piston and the cylinder walls. That means less wear. More usable power delivered to the rear wheels.

Consider a ½-ton pickup travelling just one mile in high gear. Each piston in the standard Ford Truck Six would travel 1,665 feet. That's 254 feet less than the pistons would travel in the best-selling competitive Six. 254 feet less of power-wasting friction.

In some cases competition has brought its piston travel per mile down closer to that of the Ford Truck Six by offering special "economy" axles. But in doing this they have cut acceleration. They've increased the possibility of harmful engine lugging. And still they haven't matched the shorter, thrifter piston travel of the Ford Truck Six!

Another advantage of Ford's "oversquare" design is that its wide bore allows big valve openings for this size engine. Result: better engine "breathing." Ample air is drawn in. And, after firing, the waste gases are "exhaled" more completely so that they don't interfere with the power cycle.

Why don't competitive Sixes offer "oversquare" design if it is such an advantage? As a matter of fact, competition has recognized its merits. Their newest V-8's have adopted this Ford-pioneered design. And the strokes on competitive Sixes have been getting shorter. But these Sixes were designed years ago, and originally had quite long strokes. Ford, on the other hand, has produced the only truly modern truck Six. And though competitive engines have been amended and improved, they simply can't match its performance and economy.

Savings features of every Ford Truck engine

You'll find a short piston stroke and wide bore in every Ford Truck engine, not just the Six. And all the engines share other important cost-cutting features.

Ford's exclusive "deep block" design extends the engine block well below the center of the crankshaft. This gives greater rigidity, extra support to the crankshaft bearings . . . longer engine life.

Longer valve life is built in with another Ford-pioneered truck engine improvement: "free-turning" valve design. At almost any engine speed, the valves rotate. This evens out temperature stresses on the valves so that warpage and wear are greatly reduced.

Valve guides that are part of the block also add to valve life: Ford Truck valves run over 100° cooler than valves with the insert type of guide.

Of course, there are other significant features common to all Ford Truck engines. Wedge-shaped combustion chambers that swirl the fuel-air mixture to obtain more complete combustion. Dry element air cleaners that filter out 90% of the dust and dirt that older types let through. Improved carburetion for '59 that takes full advantage of today's higher-octane regular gasolines. And many other advances.

Extra features for extra-tough jobs

On really rugged jobs, medium and heavy duty trucks tend to develop high engine temperatures. But three major advances that are standard in Ford's Heavy Duty truck engines let them perform long and well in spite of the toughest use. Stress-relieved cylinder heads avoid warpage. Valves plus special valve seat inserts are faced with extremely durable alloys. (This is aircraft engine practice and is exclusive with Ford in the truck engine field.) And exhaust valve stems contain sodium that speeds the cooling of the valves.

Ford's HD engines also have 4-barrel carburetors to give reserve power. For top economy, these engines normally run on two barrels. The other two just cut in when needed. And a "de-popper" valve on these carburetors eliminates backfiring.

The greatest concentration of endurance features

Ford's three Super Duty V-8's are the most modern, efficient gasoline engines ever built for extra-heavy trucks. Along with the durability features of the Heavy Duty engines, they have a host of performance and endurance features of their own. Three-stage cooling . . . a submerged fuel pump that virtually eliminates vapor lock . . . a simplified direct-flow manifold . . . combustion chambers completely within the block . . . these are just some of the reasons these engines are handling the toughest jobs with unmatched economy and dependability.

Here's one simple example of their superiority: they develop more horsepower per pound than all other engines in their class —so you get big-truck power without useless engine weight. Or, for more evidence of their thrifty performance, check their high, flat torque curves at your Ford Truck Dealer's. The more you learn about Ford Truck engines, the more you will agree that Ford offers you Canada's most modern, money-saving truck engines, Six or V-8.

Executive Seized In Bond 'Scheme'

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—A Boston executive was seized at his Connecticut home on Sunday and charged with receiving a number of Canadian bonds stolen in multi-million-dollar sums from two Canadian banks.

... dupe?

He was identified by the FBI as Bernard J. Ezhaya, 45, president of Industrial Relations Associates Inc. of Boston. His home is in New London, Conn.

At a hearing here before U.S. Commissioner Robert H. Alcorn, Ezhaya was accused by the government of entering into a "devious scheme" to get money from the bonds. Counsel for Ezhaya, the father of five children, called him "an unfortunate dupe of someone else."

The judge bound Ezhaya over to U.S. District Court under $50,000 bond.

EASTERN ROBBERIES

The FBI said $1,789,400 in negotiable bonds were taken Jan. 25, 1958, in a burglary of the Caisse Nationale D'Economie, an insurance firm, of Montreal.

On May 3, 1958, the Brockville Trust and Savings Company of Brockville, Ont., was burglarized of $2,250,000 worth of bearer bonds, registered bonds, jewelry and cash.

Some $76,000 in bonds stolen from both of the Canadian banks was recovered, the FBI said. The bonds were found in two New London banks, where they had been pledged as collateral for loans.

Ezhaya's lawyer, Joseph Balliro of Boston, said his client had no reason to suspect the bonds were stolen. "He obtained the bonds from an equally well respected man," Balliro said.

LABOR PARTY URGES MANDATE

U.K. 'Peace Manifesto'

LONDON (AP)—The Labor party called today for an election mandate to make Britain a third force to end the cold war.

"It is essential that one great power should break through this deadly circle," said the opposition party in a manifesto.

The manifesto outlined the foreign policy Labor would institute if they win control of the House of Commons in the election that Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is expected to call next year.

The manifesto offered a four-point program for the Middle East, including a United Nations guarantee of the frontiers of all Middle East states including Israel, establishment of diplomatic relations between Britain and the United Arab Republic, creation of an economic council to fight poverty and ensure fairer distribution of oil profits and a fresh attempt at an Arab-Israeli settlement that would include Arab recognition of Israel and a solution to the Arab refugee problem.

On disarmament, the Labor party proposed "not only to rid the world of H-bombs and other weapons of mass destruction, but to cut all armed forces and armaments to the point where aggression would be impossible." As a first step, it would suspend nuclear tests whether other nations do so.

At home, Labor pledged to extend the national health program, re-nationalize the steel and road transport industries and extend public control through government purchase of stock in privately-owned firms.

Bank Reports Pleasing Note

By RON ANDREWS, Canadian Press Staff Writer
Canadian stock markets last week fell under the influence of profit-taking and a technical readjustment to the recent rise in prices.

While industrial index stocks managed to scrape up some minor gains, the rest of the markets, particularly low-priced speculatives, were being sold by last week's investors for a profit.

There was little in the way of encouraging news to perk up the markets except for glowing bank reports which showed assets up considerably. Nearly all the listed banks had gains ranging to Nova Scotia's $2-rise at $72.

REPORT HITS STOCKS

Oil, pipeline and gas stocks continued to fluctuate as the Borden commission's report was debated for yet another week. There has been little pleasant news come out of the report and the outlook of the industry has been under a haze for the last few weeks.

Although there were no major price changes in the metal industry, mining stocks pretty well held their own. Noranda, however, lost $4.25 to $50.50 after a smart rise in preceding weeks. Reports of demand slowly catching up with supply continued to keep copper stocks buoyant.

The markets opened the week on a slightly higher level as the speculative fever which broke out last week continued to push low-priced mines and oils a bit higher. Profit-taking began to wedge its way into the picture Tuesday, however, and interest in the speculatives began to decline.

PROFIT-TAKING

By Friday it was profit-taking which was keeping volumes up among stocks such as New Mylmaque, Northal, South Union, Buffadon and Kirk-Hudson.

The industrial index at Toronto gained a half point on the week, although losing three points Friday. Other than the 20 industrial index issues, most of which had small gains, the section was lower. Losses outnumbered gains by a fair margin in most industrial groups.

Index changes at Toronto: Industrials up .56 to 508.35; golds off .53 to 85.27; base metals off 4.00 to 174.22; western oils off 1.72 to 133.86. Of 928 issues traded, 308 advanced, 463 declined and 157 were unchanged.

Index changes at Montreal: Banks up 1.69 to 58.72; utilities off .8 to 150.8; industrials off

1.0 to 295.2; combined off 4 to 247.1; papers, new, off 9 to 458.6; papers, old, up 2.30 to 1400.41; golds up 2.04 to 82.62.

BUSINESS NOTES

Thirty-five Victoria credit executives have completed a two-night school on commercial business insurance. M. Stewart, Victoria agent for Parsons Brown Ltd., lectured with Vancouver insurance executives William Rodden, Fred Bosson and Doug Hards.

Net profits of Ontario Steel Products Ltd. fell to $428,590 or $1.66 a share for the year ending Sept. 30, compared with $779,096 or $3.11 a share in 1957.

Trans-Canada Investment Corporation Ltd., Vancouver, announced a semi-annual dividend of 41.2 cents a share will be paid on Trans-Canada shares, series "A," on Dec. 1. Total dividends for 1958 is 97 cents.

Estimated profit of Lake Clinch Ltd. rose to $117,000 in October, the highest since the uranium mine started operating at Uranium City, Sask. The mine shipped 4,700 tons of 34 per cent uranium ore, worth $192,000, in October.

Five most active industrials on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges last week were Massey-Ferguson, Webb & Knapp, Trans-Canada Pipe, St. Lawrence Corp. and Trans-Mountain. Five top mines and oils were Fatima, Bonnyville, New West Amulet, Orphan and Bateman Bay.

A new soap has been designed which manufacturers claim will bring a high of relief to housewives. It leaves no ring in the bathtub or wash-basin and performs equally well in hard and soft water. Lever Brothers say the soap, called "Fraise," was developed during the Second World War. Chemical companies discovered it when confronted with the need for a product which would remove bunker oil and salt water covering the bodies of injured or burned sailors rescued from the seas.

British Car Sales Show Big Increase

Unemployed Here Show Small Drop

What the local office of the National Employment Service terms an "encouraging" decline in the number of unemployed was recorded in Victoria last week.

Total of 4,113 is five men and 11 women fewer than a week ago.

"The fact that there has been even a slight decline (in unemployment) is encouraging," the NES said, "especially in view of the steady rise in figures during the last two months and several unexpected layoffs in the logging and lumbering industries."

There has been a considerable levelling off of unemployment in the two local shanty towns, and it is expected there will be more jobs this year.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian sales of cars and trucks continued to decline in September and were off 17 per cent to 26,716 units from the 32,131 sold in September, 1957.

But sales of British and European vehicles jumped 41 per cent to 6,125 from the corresponding period a year earlier, the bureau of statistics has reported.

Overall sales of cars and trucks, including British and foreign makes, are down nine per cent at 343,765 for the first nine months of the year in comparison with the corresponding period of 1957.

But the sales of British and foreign vehicles for that period are up 47 per cent at 61,062 units as against 41,548 for the first nine months of 1957.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Worst Tumble Of Year at N.Y.

Wall Street tumbled down to its worst decline in more than a year today in a cascade of selling. Hard on its heels a slow-trading Toronto headed for its sharpest drop in the year.

Leading New York issues slipped as much as 3 points, with declines in all ranges. Industrials led the slide in Toronto. Montreal followed suit with a lower trend headed by banks and pipelines.

AT NEW YORK volume for the day was estimated at 4,500,000 shares compared with 3,950,000 Friday.

The loss was the steepest the market has taken since Nov. 26, 1957. Today's drop came after a consistent rise of more than seven months to one record high after another.

Police Have Suspect In Hit-and-Run Death

AT CHEMAINUS New Floats To Handle 25 More Boats

CHEMAINUS—Several improvements to the Chemainus Rod and Gun Club small-boat float in the harbor here will be made in the next few months, members learned at their regular club meeting.

New floats will be added to provide space for an additional 25 boats.

Two hunters, suspended from hunting in the Copper Canyon area because they were late in checking out of the 15-mile gate, have been reinstated, president John McFarlane reported to the meeting. In future, all hunters will be required to obey all regulations and restrictions or face the loss of hunting privileges.

COMPLETE KILL

Fisheries biologist Dave Hurn reported that the program to rehabilitate Wheddie's and Fuller's Lakes in Chemainus had gone off well. The kill, he said, was complete and effective.

"With the limited knowledge we now have, I am confident that these two lakes and others done on the Island will clear more readily than those of the interior, partly because of the character of our lakes and partly because the rainfall should flush them faster."

He said he plans to stock both local lakes with rainbow trout.

TO DEVISE EQUIPMENT Pool Plan Urged For Handicapped

A pooled effort to devise equipment for handicapped persons has been advocated here by Sydney Pickles, president of the Handicapped Equipment Supply Association.

His suggestion came today in view of the work done by the mobile workshop of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society.

He said:

"The recent arrival, for a temporary period, of a mobile workshop to help provide various personal aid equipment for the assistance of persons who are physically handicapped from arthritis, is a much-needed step in the right direction."

"It is to be hoped that more of these mobile workshops will be put into operation to provide an adequate personal-aid equipment service to the very large number of persons in our province who are physically handicapped from all other causes in addition to arthritis."

"Possibly all organizations which are interested in the difficulties of the handicapped might pool their financial resources to provide a sufficient

DEER HUNTERS NEARLY BECAME 'SPACE MEN'

A stray bullet from a deer hunter's rifle might have blown up Rocky Point Arsenal Sunday. Thoughtlessness by a pair of Victoria hunters in shooting on the restricted site with possible disastrous results was described by Sooke RCMP. The men will be charged with trespassing on department of national defence property, police said. Hunters were found well within the arsenal area, which is clearly posted to indicate danger and no admittance to unauthorized persons. One man was firing a .303 rifle, capable of penetrating magazine doors behind which tons of high explosives are stored.

MONTE ROBERTS

I have been thinking about kitchens, and I have come to the conclusion that the designers of the Home of Tomorrow (or even today) are missing a bit. What started me thinking about kitchens was noticing the number of people who disappear into kitchens during the course of a party. Regardless of the comfort of the living room; regardless of the deep, soft chairs, the sectional chesterfields arranged just right for conversation; regardless of the attraction of a roaring, open fire; guests flee the living room at the first opportunity, and escape to the kitchen. There the guests lean against the table, where the hostess is attempting to make sandwiches; rest their chins on top of the refrigerator, where the host is attempting to break out ice; or just stick their shoulders against the shiny white walls and chatter happily. Why hosts and hostesses tolerate guests in the kitchen, I do not know. It seems to me rather unfair. What chance has a hostess to use up assorted leftovers in the sandwiches, with guests looking over her shoulder? And as for the host, the poor fellow is compelled to give honest measure in each and every drink. And no dividend for himself. Nonetheless, guests and kitchen appear to go together, and the designers of the modern home should take this fact into consideration. They should design kitchens with all the comforts of the living room. Instead of being contented with antiseptic rows of stove, frig, washer, they should make provision for occasional chairs, ottomans, and other comfortable sitting pieces. Put in a couple of coffee tables, install the TV set above the oven door, and you'd be ready for the influx of kitchen-bound guests, ready to accommodate them without inconvenience. This would mean considerable additional space for the kitchen, but the added area could be subtracted from the living room. And the host and hostess could slip off quietly to the living room, there to make sandwiches and measure out the drinks in peace and privacy. Until the guests caught on, of course, and insisted on leaving the comfort of the kitchen to crowd into the living room.

Death Calls Music Master Gideon Hicks

Gideon Hicks, 90, an outstanding figure in the musical life of Victoria and Vancouver for almost 50 years, died Sunday in hospital after an illness of a week.

Born in Cornwall, he arrived in Vancouver in 1889, where he became conductor of Grandview Church choir, and played flute in the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra. In 1898 he accepted the post of choir leader of Metropolitan United Church here, became conductor of the Victoria Choral Society, and was responsible for many oratorio and concert performances here.

A bass-baritone himself, he was in demand as a soloist for 40 years, and had sung with the Amphion Club in Seattle, St. Cecilia Club, Tacoma, and the Vancouver Men's Choral Society. Mr. Hicks was manager for the Heintzman Piano Co. here, but in 1920 resigned to give all his time to teaching and singing. In 1932 he moved to Vancouver to open a studio, and remained there until retiring to Victoria in 1949.

The widow, at home, 1520 Coldharbour Road, is the former Lillian Armon, Toronto, and member of Metropolitan Church choir when they were married in 1901.

Other survivors are three daughters, Mrs. Stuart Forbes, London, Ont.; Mrs. Victor Scott, Vancouver, and Mrs. Joseph Ross, Victoria; one son, Nelson Hicks, Vancouver.

The funeral will be held Wednesday at 3 p.m. at McCall's, and will be followed by cremation. It has been requested that no flowers be sent.

Eight Injured In City Traffic

A naval seaman was treated for face cuts after his car crashed into a parked vehicle early today, bringing the weekend traffic injury toll to eight.

City police said Reginald Begin, HMCS New Waterford, was taken to HMCS Naden Hospital at 12.45 a.m. after his car was in collision with a car owned by Abram D. Wiebe, 670 Battery, on Yates about 300 feet west of Quadra.

Total damage was heavy, police said. Michael Morry, 21, of 2190 Cadboro Bay, is reported in fair condition at Jubilee Hospital where he was admitted with head injury received when his motorcycle went out of control and crashed into a power pole on the east side of Davie at Oak Bay Sunday at 2.50 p.m.

FOOT INJURY Robert Revoy, 8, was examined at St. Joseph's Hospital for a foot injury after he and his brother Russell, both of 872 Wollaston, were in collision with a car turning at Yates and Douglas at 12.40 p.m. Saturday.

Police said Robert stepped from the curb and into the side of a car driven by John E. Fry, 1313 Gladstone.

Mrs. Ernest D. Smith, 3880 Haro, received a knee injury, cuts and bruises when the car in which she was was in collision with another car at Midway and Foul Bay at 10.20 a.m. Saturday.

Police said the cars, driven by Mr. Smith and Richard Cox, 542 Joffre, received about $400 damage. A six-year-old pedestrian received multiple injuries when she was in collision with an auto Friday afternoon and was discharged at the week-end from St. Joseph's Hospital.

RAN OUT Police said Patricia Diachina, 924 Hillside, ran in front of a truck driven by John E. Rendie, 204 Michigan, at Hillside and Blanshard at 3.45 p.m.

The girl was admitted with head cut, shock, bruises, face and knee abrasions, police said.

Joseph Lachapelle, 26, of Churchill Hotel, was treated for mouth and nose injuries, and Douglas Melvin Andrews, 18, 212 St. Lawrence, for a face cut when they were taken to Jubilee Hospital after a two-car collision at Topaz and Prior at 12.01 a.m. Saturday.

Police said Lachapelle drove one car and Thomas J. Craig, 1615 Camosun, drove the other.

Jean Arber, 34, of 1310 Franklin, was treated for shock and face abrasions and discharged from St. Joseph's after she was injured in a two-car crash at Pembroke and Gladstone at 10.10 p.m. Friday.

Trucker to Face Negligence Trial In Woman's Death

Truck driver Donald Croft, 3756 Seaton, was remanded Tuesday for committal on a charge of criminal negligence when he appeared in city police court today.

Croft was charged after the death of Mrs. Isobel Louise Tautz, 73, of 3210 Douglas, who was in collision with a B.C. Electric truck on Douglas at Francis Oct. 9.

Crown evidence at a preliminary hearing was completed today and Magistrate H. C. Hall ordered Croft committed for trial in a higher court.

Defence counsel George Gregory requested committal be postponed a day in order that bail may be arranged.

Hospital Arrest Ends Wild Chase

Young Girl Falls From Fleeing Car

A 16-year-old Victoria boy, caught by police taking refuge in a St. Joseph's Hospital corridor Sunday afternoon, brought to a close a four-day lower island search for a stolen car.

The boy has been charged by juvenile authorities with taking a car without the owner's consent.

R. A. Spence, 228 Harlow, opened the case when he reported his car stolen from Balmoral and Cook at about 10.55 p.m. last Wednesday. SEEN AGAIN

Just after midnight three days later the owner reported seeing the car being driven fast on Cedar Hill at Shelbourne, and a few minutes later it was seen again in the same area.

All police departments were alerted to watch for the car, but it was not spotted again until 3.50 p.m. Sunday, again at Cedar Hill and Shelbourne, then 10 minutes later at Rupert and Heywood, several miles away in South Fairfield.

GIRL FALLS OUT City police got on the car's trail on Chester, between Hilda and Oscar, where a 14-year-old girl tumbled from the fleeing car without injury.

A second 14-year-old girl also was a passenger, police said.

The car was stopped and its driver bolted, but was apprehended minutes later when he tried to hide in the hospital.

IN SICKNESS I THEE WED

Because many of her friends had come from Ocean Falls for her wedding, a gallant young Nanaimo bride refused to postpone the ceremony when taken suddenly ill.

Patricia Baird was scheduled to be married in St. Peter's Church Saturday afternoon to Allan Jayve, but sudden illness sent her to Nanaimo General Hospital.

The wedding went on as arranged, but in her hospital room, with the bride dressed in a hospital gown and propped up in bed. She held the groom's hand as Fr. Ratchford read the wedding vows, then wished the guests well at the reception she could not attend.

Dedication Asked for 8 Park Areas

City parks committee today recommended that eight parks and playgrounds be dedicated for parks purposes. Dedication would involve a plebiscite next year. Once dedicated, the land could not be used for any other purpose without a second plebiscite cancelling the first.

Parks recommended for dedication were Macdonald, Royal Athletic and Topaz. Playgrounds recommended were James Bay, Linden and Chapman, Jackson and Tolmie, Bay and Oregon, and the Pandora Street Green.

Committee also recommended that council reserve for parks purposes five wooded lots, totalling 1.44 acres, at Brighton and Redfern.

TRAFFIC FINES

Farmers Seek Further Probe Of Food Prices Directors of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture want the formation of a federal food and research information council to carry on an inquiry on price spreads of food products. The directors today met to consider resolutions and administrative policies for submission to the federation's annual two-day convention to open at the Empress Hotel at 9.30 a.m. Tuesday. More than 200 delegates representing every branch of B.C.'s agricultural industry will be attending the meeting. The directors endorsed a resolution calling upon the federal government to establish a research council to "continue work of research, inquiry and public education concerning the food industry." They felt that the Royal Commission appointed this year to investigate price spreads on food was inadequate. Charles Walls, managing secretary of the BCFA, said there was a widespread feeling among consumers that food prices are too high. If food is too high, Mr. Walls said, it was not due to the farmer because he was getting less today than a few years ago for his products. "On any reasonable basis of comparison," said Mr. Walls, "food is fairly cheap. If the spread is too wide, we suggest it is for the most part too wide at the expense of the farmer."

MRS. BEA ZUCCO with first pension cheque

Widow Fights Socreds In By-Election

Hard-fighting silicosis widow Bea Zucco this week will jump into the Rossland-Trail by-election campaign in a novel role. Mrs. Zucco has rejected all offers of political affiliation and financial aid.

But she'll stump the riding talking to housewives on a non-partisan, anti-Socred basis. Mrs. Zucco made headlines in a long fight to get a pension for herself and four children when her miner husband contracted silicosis.

All appeals to the Workmen's Compensation Board and Labor Minister Lyle Wicks failed. But after Mr. Zucco died an autopsy proved he had been suffering from silicosis. The pension then was granted. Meanwhile, Socred officials say Premier Bennett will make his only scheduled appearance in the by-election Dec. 13 at Trail, two days before the voting.

Six cabinet ministers also will speak on behalf of candidate D. L. Brothers during the campaign.

A-G Debate Requested By Gregory

Former Liberal MLA George Gregory will issue a public challenge to Attorney-General Robert Bonner tonight for a platform debate on his handling of the Sommers case, it was learned today.

He will propose the debate take place on a public platform during the Rossland-Trail by-election.

Mr. Gregory also is expected to attack the power development policies of the B.C. Electric during a free-time political broadcast.

The broadcast will be at 10.15 p.m. and is expected to feature a review of government handling of charges laid against former forestry minister Robert Sommers Dec. 7, 1955.

Mr. Gregory engaged in a similar public debate with former Social Credit finance minister Einar Gunderson during a by-election campaign in November, 1953, when Mr. Gregory was first elected to the legislature.

SENT TO THE SHOWERS AFTER RHUBARB WITH COMMITTEE

Aldermen Give Mighty 'Heave-Ho' To Pro Ball Promoters' Request

A professional baseball promoter was 'tossed out' of the ball park for being too lippy to city parks committee today.

Committee recommended an application for use of the park next year he received and filed. Request was made by C. F. Mackenzie, manager of Victoria Ventures Ltd., which claims to be negotiating for a professional baseball franchise here.

Wary of the trail of unpaid bills left by the last professional baseball club in Victoria, the committee had written the new company requesting information on its financial position and plans. Mr. Mackenzie, in a letter read today, replied that the committee's enquiry was "the height of impertinence and is no concern of your council members."

He described the enquiry as an "inquisition" and added that the city was entitled only to know what dates the company might want use of the park. He said that committee delay had cost the company an opportunity to obtain a franchise but there was still a "slim chance" if the committee acted promptly in guaranteeing availability of the park.

UNCALLED FOR "What nerve," commented Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson. "That's a terrible letter."

"It's uncalled for. We have a responsibility to the people," said Ald. D. J. Proudfoot.

Ald. M. H. Mooney said the committee should inform council it is "not prepared to deal with this organization since it is not willing to give us information we need."

"We should drop it in the wastebasket," he added in an aside.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor, Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

On Etiquette

VISIT WOULD BE PREMATURE:

Our son is a senior in college. He has pinned a classmate who lives in his college town but whom we have never met. I have asked the girl to spend a weekend with us, but my son tells me that her mother wants to come too. What should I do? Frankly, I think it is too "previous" to arrange a meeting with the family.

Louise Davis Answers:

I think so too. My guess is that the girl's mother has interpreted the "pinning" as an engagement. That is neither here nor there, for she shouldn't have even intimated that she would like to come for a visit too. Naturally, she would like to meet the parents of her daughter's beau, but the young people are not yet formally engaged. I think that you could tactfully handle the situation if you write a note to the mother, telling her that you have asked her daughter to spend a weekend at your home, that you are looking forward to meeting her, and that you will take good care of her. Your letter would give assurance that the girl would be in the hands of good chaperones and it would also let the mother know that you are not inviting her at this time.

She's helping to write our Bank Statement...

and lending money to Build Houses...

JUST fifty cents a week...yet the regular deposit of this young lady at one of our school wickets makes her a "valued customer" of "MY BANK". She's one of more than two million Canadians saving at the B of M. Their deposits run into the billions. To be exact, this year-end—October 31st—total deposits amount to $3,038,349,556.

But her part in the B of M's "total deposits" is only half the picture. What's happening to her deposit? Well, along with the deposits of the other two million, her money is being lent to build houses, buy tractors, cut lumber—to do a thousand and one things.

How? Through hundreds of thousands of bank loans, the B of M is employing this youngster's deposits, with many others, to finance the operations of business and industrial enterprises of all kinds and sizes... of farmers, fishermen, oil-men, miners, lumbermen and ranchers... of citizens of every calling... of provincial and municipal governments and school districts. Total B of M loans now run to no less than $1,416,518,876. Yes, when you save your money at the B of M you not only keep it safe and earning interest for you, but you make a sound investment for yourself in Canada's growth now and in the years ahead.

What's more—whether you want to save money or borrow it—you'll like banking at the B of M. Why not drop in next time you're passing?

Make Your Choice of Silver A Serious Consideration

Sterling always has been and always will be, one of the women's most treasured possessions. It is a matter of pride, pleasure and, frankly speaking, sound investment. Since the day the first silver deposit was discovered, many centuries ago, silver has been desired and cherished perhaps more than any other metal. In the past, only the wealthy, the kings and the nobility could boast possession of silver. Silver has come down to the present generation as a shining example of graceful living. The choice of your sterling pattern during National Jewelry Week is one of the most important decisions you will make in building your home. It will last longer than the roof over your head. It is a public expression of your taste. So the first rule in choosing your silver is to take time to look and look. Don't choose a pattern on the basis of the spoon alone, but make sure you are completely happy with other pieces in the setting. Once you have chosen your sterling, use it every day, for every meal. With constant use, sterling develops its mellow patina, a deepened lustre which comes only through use. The very fact that it is sterling makes it practically impervious to wear. Don't worry if it picks up a scratch or two. Aging in the dark corner of a drawer can never increase its beauty. Your family and yourself should enjoy your sterling every day as children who grow up accustomed to the beauty of good silver will absorb an appreciation of design and higher cultural standards. Entertaining is a welcome opportunity to use your sterling in its full glory. Always set the table to the occasion. Remember an inviting service can make a very simple fare look, and yes, even taste like a chef's triumph. So if you can't afford a service for 12, remember that sterling silver is a better than lifetime investment. You can always add to a modest start. No matter what the bank account, your favorite silver dealer can help you own a minimum service that will fill most of your needs. It is no great chore to care for your silver if you do it properly. Make it a habit to wash your sterling as quickly as possible after it has been in use. Just simple soap and water treatment is all that is necessary, hot water, plenty of suds, then a thorough rinse. Always dry completely. Touch up tarnished spots as quickly as they appear. Keep in airtight chest or buffet drawer when not in use. When polishing becomes necessary, use any of the many creditable silver polishes. Apply polish with an absolutely clean cloth of soft material—flannel is excellent. Just use easy lengthwise strokes. Remove polish with a dry cloth, rinse and dry, and there is your sterling polished to perfection for all to see.

DEAR ABBY . . .

What's Fair Is Fair

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: You were out of order reminding that person who wanted to leave money to animals that there were crippled children and mentally ill people who could also use the help. She knew that! People can ask for food when they're hungry and tell you where it hurts when they are sick, but dogs and cats have to depend on humans for help. Be fair, Abby, and print this.

ANOTHER ANIMAL LOVER.

DEAR ABBY: To "ANIMAL LOVER" who wanted to know how to go about giving some money to help animals: I have a little seven-year-old girl who is wearing a thin summer coat because we can't afford even a second-hand winter coat for her. Maybe you know a dog who would like to share his nice warm natural coat with my child? CHILD LOVER.

DEAR ABBY: If my dear deceased parents could have seen the way 22 relatives fought over a measly little estate of $5,600 they would have left everything to dogs.

DISGUSTED WITH PEOPLE.

DEAR ABBY: You've got to help me. I am a 15-year-old girl and my father treats me like I was five. He says I can't go in a car with a boy unless the boy drives him around the block in his car. He says he wants to make sure the boy is a good driver and he wants to be sure the boy's car is in good enough condition to be safe. Abby, if I tell a boy he has to pass this kind of a test I will be an old maid. Please say something to my father in your column to help me. FUTURE OLD MAID.

DEAR "FUTURE": Your father would rather have a live "old maid" for a daughter than a dead debutante. But, if the boy has a driver's license and has not been cited for traffic violations, your father can assume he is a safe driver. As for evaluating the equipment—I think Papa could give it the once-over from the window.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for almost two years and I still haven't gotten him to do anything around the house. The only thing I want him to do is to fix our bed so the mattress will not sag. It is a simple thing to put a few boards across the frame and

I would do it myself but I am in my seventh month, and am afraid to lift the mattress. But he will drive to his uncle's farm, which is 2 hours each way to help his uncle put up a shack for a tractor while I sit and wait in the car for four hours. How can I get him to do his own chores first? SICK OF WAITING.

DEAR SICK: Some men are not moved to act until they have been hit in the pocket-book. Give him fair warning that if he doesn't do the necessary home chores, you will hire a handy man.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ENG. LIT." MAJOR: If all the boys flunked and all the girls passed, perhaps your professor is grading on the curves?

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

If you want a collection of Abby's best letters and answers in one book, ask your bookdealer to get "DEAR ABBY" for you.

Prepare Now for Leisure You'll Have in Later Life

Modern women have problems which their feminine forebearers did not have. It is true that a woman today has many conveniences which were undreamed of a few years ago, but there are other more serious problems which confront her.

In the first place our way of life has changed. The tendency is toward smaller houses which make it impractical, crowded and hectic when there are several generations living together. In the past large families were more often living under one roof, families including everyone from grandmother to grandchildren, with an aunt or uncle thrown in for good measure.

Then the older woman was a welcome and needed member of the team. She mended and read to her grandchildren and filled numerous demands. She was not isolated in her fifties and sixties, even if she had had the misfortune to lose her husband, and she had plenty to do.

Today, with the changing mode of living, the increased life expectancy and the comparative statistics concerning length of life for men and women, a woman must face the fact that she probably will outlive her husband and may not fit into the home of her children as a permanent fixture.

Today the average woman can expect to live to be 70 or maybe even 80. Of her life span only about 20 to 25 years will be spent in the heavy responsibilities of child-rearing. Most women find the nest empty, the children gone, when in their forties.

That leaves a lot of years ahead! These can be rewarding ones if the woman has prepared for them ahead of time. The young mother today or the woman whose children will soon leave home must face these facts in order to protect her future happiness. While her children are still at home she should begin to build outside interests for herself.

She should take refresher courses or some new training or become involved in some activity which personal taste and interest indicate.

Apple Twists Take Prize In National Bake Contest

NEW YORK (AP) — The winning recipe in the Apple Twists bake-off contest:

Spicy Apple Twists
2 baking apples, pared, cored, sliced into 8 wedges.
1½ cups sifted flour.
1 teaspoon salt.
½ cup shortening.
4 to 5 tbsps. cold water.
1½ cup melted butter.
½ cup sugar.
1 teaspoon cinnamon.
½ cup water.

Prepare apples. Sift flour with salt into mixing bowl. Cut in shortening. Sprinkle cold water over mixture, stirring with fork until dough is just moist enough to hold together. Form into ball. Flatten to about ¼-inch thickness, smooth edges.

Roll out on floured surface to 16x10-inch rectangle. Cut into 16 1x1-inch strips. Wrap one strip around each apple slice. Arrange in 13x9x2-inch pan, sides not touching. Brush with butter; sprinkle with mixture of sugar and cinnamon. Pour ½ cup water over pastries. Bake in hot oven, 450 degrees, 25 to 30 minutes until golden brown. Serve warm or cold, plain or with cream. Makes 16.

Canada Getting a Raw Deal In Defence Pact—Pearson

NEW YORK (UPI) — The United States is getting the best deal, at the expense of Canada, in joint plans to defend the North American continent, Liberal leader Lester Pearson said Saturday.

The Nobel Peace Prize winner said in an address at Columbia University, "It is unrealistic to talk of complete integration in collective defence . . . if military equipment developed and manufactured in Canada cannot be used in your own country because pressures by your own industrial producers are strong enough to prevent it."

There was unity in defence but not in economics, Pearson said.

"One is co-operative the other restrictive," he said.

The North American air defence (NORAD) agreement, he said, committed Canada to any major war in which the U.S. would be involved, but the reverse was not necessarily true.

"Because Canada is like the U.S. in so many ways—and not always the best ways—do not make the mistake that we are, or desire to be, an identical little brother," Pearson continued.

"Indeed, we are more interested at times, in preserving and emphasizing our 'separateness' than our 'togetherness,' while naturally enjoying whatever benefits we can secure from the latter."

After reviewing possible sources of friction between Canada and the U.S. Pearson said "relations between our two countries while as close and friendly as those between any two countries in the world, are becoming increasingly important and complicated."

Teeth on Time Plan Tested

Pain from an aching tooth usually comes in spasms or instalments—why not pay the dentist the same way?

For several months 50 Vancouver dentists have been looking into a scheme which allows patients to pay their bills on time, with the co-operation of bank loan departments.

If the system is a success, it may become province-wide, says Dr. Ross Upton, executive secretary of the B.C. Dental Association.

"And so far the results have been very satisfactory," making bill-paying less painful for both patient and dentist.

First of all the dentist makes an estimate of the work to be done. Then the patient fills out a form and submits it to his bank. Work goes ahead as soon as the loan application is approved—usually in a day or two. When the patient is dentally sound again, the bank pays the bill.

The scheme is already working well in Eastern Canada and Washington State. Pre-payment dental plans—similar to the MSA medical scheme—are also being investigated in B.C.

2 TOP CHURCHMEN RAP RED CHINA ACCEPTANCE

NEW YORK (AP)—Two prominent Protestant clergymen repudiated Saturday a resolution of the fifth World Order Study Conference that the United States take steps toward recognizing Communist China.

The study conference was sponsored by the National Council of Churches, which represents 33 Protestant and Orthodox communions.

The Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Poling, editor of the Christian Herald, said: "I believe that this action misrepresents my Protestant faith. With every influence that I have, I repudiate it."

The Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, pastor of the Marble Collegiate Church, said: "I am one minister who is completely opposed to recognition of Communist China and to the admission of that ruthlessly totalitarian government to the councils of nations."

STUDENT LEADER ON VISIT

National Tie-Up For Vic College

Victoria College student council is expected to affiliate with the National Federation of Canadian University Students within "a few weeks," a college spokesman said Saturday.

The disclosure followed the visit to Victoria of Mortimer Bistrisky, the 22-year-old president of NFCUS, during a tour of 32 member universities and colleges across Canada.

The spokesman for 75,000 students also discussed finances with Victoria College student council, noting that Canada's college population "would probably double" if young and old people looking for a chance at higher education were not faced with what he termed "the awkward financial barrier."

"It's a shame that people who want desperately to go to university cannot do so merely on account of money," he said. "Any barrier should be academic, not financial."

The federation chief was appalled by "the false conception the general public has of Canadian university students."

"The average man seems to think of a university student as someone who is interested primarily in pleasure and sport. Actually, this is very wrong. The Canadian university student is basically a very serious and responsible individual, and definitely on a par with students of other days."

Strike Decision By Engineers Out Thursday

Wednesday has been set as the deadline for the return of ballots by some 150 B.C. government stationary engineers taking a strike vote to support a 9 per cent pay increase demand.

Result of the vote will be known the next day.

The engineers, who earn from $265 to $400 a month, believe another 9 per cent will bring their rates closer to those paid in private industry.

Their job is to heat and maintain government buildings throughout the province.

NEW TALKS

Meanwhile, the secretary of the B.C. Government Employees' Association said today he will seek another meeting with the cabinet as the latest move to get an 11 per cent pay hike for 11,800 non-engineer government employees.

The government has promised "certain wage readjustments" for civil servants in next year's budget, "but we want some sort of satisfaction now," said Ed O'Connor.

Association members earlier voted, 78 per cent to take a strike vote, "if necessary," to back up their wage requests.

Ex-Royal Roads Officer Dies In Ottawa

Former staff adjutant at Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, Lieut. Cmdr. Peter James Bates, RCN, died in Ottawa last week following a lengthy illness. He was 40.

He had also held appointments at HMCS Naden and had served aboard HMCS Athabaskan and Stettler.

He had returned to naval headquarters in August, 1957, to serve on the staff of the director of naval pay and accounting.

Board Given Metchosin Water Main

Federal government Saturday decided to turn over its nine-mile Metchosin water main to the Greater Victoria Water Board.

The transfer will open up the whole area for water service.

Only 140 persons have been allowed to hook up to the government pipeline, running from Langford to William Head quarantine station, in the past 40 years.

Water commissioner Ronald Upward said many more connections will be allowed by the water board.

"It will open up all of the Metchosin area which was restricted because no one could get water," he said.

The water board will seek a federal grant to offset costs of putting the line into good condition.

MYSTERY BLAST DYNAMITE?

3 Killed as Taxi Explodes

PORT ARTHUR, Ont. (CP)—Two men were killed early Sunday morning when a taxi cab in which they were riding blew up.

The victims were driver Victor Waller, 30, and James Martin, a 57-year-old prospector.

Police said they were baffled by the explosion and could advance no theories as to its cause. They said it was possible Martin was carrying dynamite.

The roof of the car was blasted off. It struck overhead power lines and plunged part of the city into darkness.

Martin was hurled into a ditch where he died. Waller, also thrown from the car, died in hospital.

STEVENSON IN RUSSIA

They also said, in answer to my question, that Malenkov, Khrushchev's predecessor, was living at the remotest end of Kazakhstan. I couldn't resist the temptation to add that as defeated head of the "opposition" in the United States I was at liberty to say what I pleased and go where I pleased—including the Soviet Union. My host quickly answered: "Why don't you invite Malenkov to the U.S.?" Maybe it would be a good idea!

Agriculture has been the Soviets' biggest failure, and Mr. Khrushchev's bold solution is to make these empty eastern regions the main granary of the U.S.S.R. He has apparently succeeded with his daring plan to reorganize industry. But success is less predictable for his plan to plow up huge areas of virgin soil in south Siberia and Kazakhstan.

Harvesters Quit

Since 1954, when the "new lands" program was started, they say that about 90,000 new acres have become productive. By raising more bread grains on the new lands, Khrushchev hopes to free land in the warm fertile southwest—the Ukraine and Caucasus—for what he regards as "queen of the fields," corn. With more corn he can fatten more livestock and hurry the day when Russia can "catch up with America in meat, butter and eggs," a sign we saw at every farm.

Initially some 300,000 young people were coaxed or pressured to go out as "volunteers" to till the virgin lands.

J. W. ALLAN, Municipal Clerk.

In 1956 about 2,000,000—mostly students—were sent out for the summer to help with the harvest. But that experiment with "soft hands" from the city harvested mostly blisters and sunburn.

I suspect the men in the Kremlin have one eye, anxiously cocked at the exploding population of Siberia's neighbor, "fraternal" Communist China, which is another good reason for settling these immense, empty spaces. A measure of the desire to populate Siberia is the recent decision of the Young Communist League to send out a million youths as settlers in the coming few years.

Grain to Grapes

In Kazakhstan we visited a Kolkhoz, a collective farm at the foot of the snow-capped Tien-Shan mountains on the border of China. On a hundred thousand acres of farm and pasture land, 1,680 families lived, of 21 nationalities. The 2,600 able-bodied workers raised everything from grain to grapes in commercial quantities. The livestock included cattle, horses, pigs, poultry, bees, silver foxes, 40,000 sheep and 180 camels! (Incidentally 35 people were assigned to look after the 1,500 "Russian white" pigs, which illustrates the labor waste all over Russia.)

On these farms each family has an acre or so around its house for itself—the amount varies—and can sell any surplus produce in the free market in town. A farmer's earnings are computed in workday units and paid in cash and produce. The average income seems to be somewhat lower than a city worker's, but there is a high degree of self-sufficiency and a farmer's living costs must be much lower. I even saw an old-fashioned spinning-wheel in use in a peasant's house on one of these farms.

This farm boasted a large "club" with an auditorium seating 500 for recreation and political "education." Just as in the city factories, the babies and small children were kept in very good nurseries and kindergartens while their mothers were at work on the farm.

'Factory' Wages

The Yegorievsky farm had over 50,000 acres and a work force of 650. Like most of the "new lands" farms, it was a sovkhos, a state farm, rather than a kolkhoz, or collective. The latter are theoretically run on a co-operative basis, but a sovkhos is a state enterprise like a factory, and its farmers work for wages like factory workers. A regular field hand at the Yegorievsky "grain factory" receives 600-800 rubles a month, or $60 to $80 at the tourist rate of exchange.

This year, the manager told me, they were not going to count on students from the distant cities at harvest time. And I learned that many of the young "volunteers" sent east in the great resettlement campaign (100,000 of them were sent to this province) have since returned. But most of those who marry seem to be willing to settle down in Siberia.

Wheat is the main crop and the brisk little manager expected a yield of better than 30 bushels an acre, as against 28 last year. At another big farm we visited the following day—a kolkhoz this time—they said their yield last year was 24 bushels to the acre.

Corn in Ditches

The grain is stored on the ground or in long low mud brick sheds, and much of the machinery—including huge self-propelled combined—has no shelter at all. I never saw a silo in Russia and the silage, mostly green corn, is stored in ditches.

But I did see dwarf apple and cherry trees bred to live under the Siberian snows. And in the middle of an orchard we sat down at long wooden tables to eat piles of the first raspberries grown out of doors as they used to be many years ago. Our cars raised clouds of dust on the dirt road and skirted around the mud holes through fenceless oceans of wheat and oats billowing out endlessly under a clear blue sky. Off on the flat, treeless horizon a freight train chugged slowly along, black smoke trailing from the old steam locomotive. The wail of the distant whistle reminded me of my boyhood on the prairies of the Middle West, and it was hard to believe that it was the Turk-Sib railroad and not the Illinois Central.

We drove into town past straggling log houses, a huge grain elevator, a war-built tractor plant, and finally into the imposing new main square. At the Rubtsovsk hotel another large crowd of curious Siberians was awaiting us.

English Writers

In this cold climate greenery is much esteemed and my hotel room was largely occupied by an enormous bush that looked like hibiscus. And in the book shelves were more surprises—Dickens, Jack London, Stevenson, Galsworthy, O. Henry, Thackeray, Steinbeck and Sinclair Lewis.

We drove 40 miles into the country to see the Yegorievsky state farm, accompanied by the personable vice-chairman of the provincial Soviet, Vasily Gordeev. As we careened along I thought of Illinois before the hard roads, and then we got stuck in the mud. The wheat, barley and oats reminded me of home too. The rainfall had been exceptional this year and their best harvest was expected.

In Siberia where the first frost comes in late August and the reliable growing season is only about 100 days.

Typical horse-drawn Russian carts are far more numerous than automobiles along the dirt roads where cattle and chickens feed at will. And life in the isolated remote farm communities must be much as it was on our frontier a century ago.

But there is a difference—tractors and schools; and social life centres not around a church, but around a party clubhouse ornamented with oversize statues of Lenin and Stalin and propaganda signs.

Dust Bowl Coming?

Some Western observers have predicted that Khrushchev is plowing up a gigantic dust bowl on these marginal or semi-marginal lands in the east. Even in southern Siberia the rainfall is uncertain.

When a U.S. farm delegation visited Rubtsovsk in 1955—a dry year—they saw dust clouds up to 3,000 feet. But this year is a good one, and the crops were certainly impressive. As to ultimate success or failure, it is too soon to write it off as a certain failure. And certainly it is also too soon to conclude that Khrushchev has solved his farm problems.

From Rubtsovsk we flew north to Novosibirsk, once a labor camp where the Trans-Siberian crosses the Ob River, and now the "Siberian Chicago." I think it pleased the mayor when I gave him greetings from my friend Richard Daley, the mayor of a more familiar Chicago.

Here, too, our first impressions were strangely un-Siberian.

Let's talk REAL ESTATE

By Don Whyte

The Real Estate Board of Victoria recently was given an excellent address by Mr. J. Victor Dicastr, the registrar of land titles in Victoria. One of the highlights of Mr. Dicastr's address was his revelation that a substantial number of transfers of property now are being made by Agreement of Sale.

An Agreement of Sale is the right to purchase a property during which the purchaser pays the vendor the amount of his indebtedness while the title to the property remains in the name of the vendor. When the purchaser's indebtedness is paid off the former owner transfers the title to the purchaser by means of a merger of the agreement for sale, this is then required.

If the purchaser under an Agreement for Sale wishes to sell his property this existing agreement is transferable, and if the new purchaser does not have full cash to equity a balance can be taken under what is known as a Sub-Agreement.

Other Two Power Chiefs To Quit in Four Months

Crosby, MacLeod Retire in March

The two remaining members of the three-man B.C. Power Commission today announced their retirements will take effect next March 31.

The announcement was made jointly by T. H. Crosby, the chairman, commission member Dr. H. J. MacLeod and Premier Bennett.

They said it was to clear the air following published reports of a press conference the premier held last Friday when he announced that H. H. Griffin, the other member, had resigned. At that time Mr. Bennett said the other two members, who are older men, will want to retire next year, or "some time in the future."

Both commissioners said they had planned to retire on March 31 before the current controversy arising out of charges by H. Lee Briggs, former general manager and had told the premier.

They pointed out that when they joined the power commission four and a half years ago they had both retired from other positions and had joined the power board as a public service at the request of the government.

They now propose to have their retirements take effect March 31 as they had originally planned.

FREE HAND

Right after Mr. Briggs made his charges, all three commissioners went to see the Premier and tendered their immediate resignations in order to allow him a free hand.

Mr. Bennett persuaded them not to resign immediately, but later Mr. Griffin requested to be released right away.

The two other commissioners said they were making their firm statement of retirement today because in newspaper reports of the remarks by Premier Bennett there had been some different quotations as to when they intended to retire.

Thus they wished to make their position clear.

Provinces Want Rail Subsidies

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan said today at least some provinces will propose federal railway subsidies in connection with their appeal against the latest freight rate increase.

He told reporters his province will do this before the cabinet today, and he added: "The proposal has the concurrence of Premier Manning of Alberta."

Mr. Douglas talked to reporters at a lunch recess of the cabinet hearing of an appeal by eight provinces against the 17 per cent freight rate boost awarded the railways a week ago by the board of transport commissioners.

The increase was granted to enable the railways to meet a demand by unions for a 14 cents-an-hour wage boost. The unions representing 130,000 employees have called the strike for Dec. 1 over the issue, and whether the railways are tied up will depend on the government's action.

SILENT ON PROCEEDINGS
After this morning's hearing, Acting Prime Minister Green had no comment on proceedings. Railway spokesmen also were silent.

Earlier, informants said the subsidy proposal would be heard today. It would be suggested in the form mainly of compensation for the low level of the Crownstest Pass freight rates on eastern export grain.

The grain rates are fixed by a 1925 parliamentary statute.

At today's hearing, three provincial premiers attended. They were Douglas, Stanfield of Nova Scotia and Roblin of Manitoba.

Attorney-General Bonner of British Columbia also attended.

Greek Funnyman 'Parkyakarkas' Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Harry Einstein, 54, who rose to radio fame as the Greek funnyman, "Parkyakarkas," died of a heart attack today backstage at a show business gathering. Einstein had spoken at a Friars Club testimonial dinner for Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz when he collapsed.

He was carried backstage. Doctors summoned from the audience made an incision in his chest and massaged his heart. For two hours they kept his heart pumping. He was finally pronounced dead.

Deadlock at Geneva

GENEVA (UPI) — The two Geneva East-West conferences on test bans and surprise attack bogged down again today with Russia's position hardening on both fronts.

BRIDGE LINK TO MAINLAND REQUESTED

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP) — The Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association wants the federal government to build a bridge to connect Vancouver Island with the British Columbia mainland.

The association Saturday voted to ask the provincial government to "abide by the terms of union by which B.C. joined Canada."

Claude L. Harrison, former mayor of Victoria, said the move was prompted by the financial losses suffered last summer on the Island because of the CFB ferry strike.

When B.C. joined Canada the terms of union provided for a rail link near the northern end of Vancouver Island, he said.

Hunter's Death Mystery

Mystery shrouds the weekend death of a Ladysmith hunter, originally thought to have died from a heart attack, but later found to have been shot. David Forrester, 62, who had failed to keep a rendezvous with three companions Saturday in the Wolf Mountain area west of Nanaimo, was found at 10 p.m. Saturday by a search party.

His body was found slumped over a deer which he apparently had been dressing, and his gun was leaning against a tree with its safety catch on. It was thought that he had suffered a heart attack, but when RCMP investigated they found a bullet wound in his body.

NO FOUL PLAY

Police do not suspect foul play.

It is believed the fatal shot was fired by a hunter who thought he was shooting a deer, although it had been suggested it might have been a "stray" bullet fired at a legitimate target that killed Forrester.

Nanaimo RCMP today were taking statements from hunters known to have been in the Wolf Mountain-Nanaimo Lakes area Saturday.

Police said remains will be viewed at the opening session of the inquest tonight, and that evidence will be given when it convenes at a later date.

UN Urged To Go Ahead Without Reds

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The United States today proposed that the United Nations go ahead without the Soviet Union if the Russians refuse to take part in a proposed international study of outer space co-operation.

The proposal was made by ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, who told the UN's 81-nation political committee that he had been unable to reach agreement with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin in private talks.

Lodge said he hoped Zorin would vote for a revised 20-nation resolution which embodies many of the elements in a rival Soviet plan. He added, however, that failure of the Soviet Union to agree should not halt UN action.

PAIR SWEEP 1,000 FEET NEAR LAKE LOUISE

Skiers Die in Avalanche

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Two Calgary skiers died Sunday under an avalanche which swept down on them from Bow Summit, on the upper slopes of 10,119-foot Mount Thompson, near Lake Louise.

They are Robert Picken, 30, married, with one child, and Morley Chandler, 29, single. The snow swept them down the mountainside at a tremendous speed for about 1,000 feet.

An official statement by the superintendent of Banff National Park said the avalanche occurred in an area posted with red flags to warn against skiing in the area.

The flags were carried with the victims of the tragedy to the foot of the mountain slope. One body was recovered after about 20 minutes search beneath three feet of snow.

The other was not found until after about three hours of frantic digging by rescue teams called in from the surrounding area.

Hundreds of skiers were on the slopes of the popular mountain when the accident occurred.

The victims and several other skiers were attempting to cross the slide area, marked off by red flags and posted on park bulletin boards as dangerous, when one of them stepped on a wind-packed piece of hard snow topping softer layers. Park officials said this caused a wind-slab avalanche—a type which usually reaches speeds up to 100 miles an hour.

The companions of the victims were caught at the edge of the avalanche but were able to extricate themselves.

WINTER AND SUMMER... ONLY 18 MILES APART

Mother Nature, still befuddled by the exceptional summer she gave Vancouver Island this year, went off the deep end in both directions today. At one extreme she provided some snow on the Malahat for pretty little Grace Van den Brink, found playing at the Shawnigan cutoff, and at the other, only some 18 miles away, gave Mrs. A. W. Duncan, 115 Robertson, some Japanese plum trees in full bloom. The trees are on Mrs. Duncan's boulevard. See story on page 15.—(Times photos.)

SPECIAL TIMES SERIES

Colonization For Siberia

Not many westerners have visited Siberia and fewer still have seen as much of it as Adlai Stevenson did on his 7,000-mile Soviet travels. Stevenson, an Illinois farmer, was particularly interested in the tremendous agricultural effort being made in Siberia by Russian colonists.

By ADLAI E. STEVENSON

One of the memorable sights you see if the Russians let you travel as far east as Sverdlovsk in the Urals is a white stone shaft in a birch and pine forest by the side of a winding road about 30 miles east of town. Two words are carved on it side by side: "Europe" and "Asia." And of course you have your picture taken with one foot in Europe and the other in Asia.

To the east, across the largest plain in the world to the highlands beyond and on to the Pacific stretches the one-third of Asia called Siberia—a territory bigger than the whole U.S.A. and thrice the size of Western Europe.

The Russians started colonizing it at the end of the 16th century, when a band of Cossacks headed by Yermak crossed the Urals. They are still colonizing it, and today Nikita Khrushchev is striving to finish up the job that Yermak started. "Go east, young man," is his slogan.

I wanted to go there this summer because Siberia, together with the enormous arid Kazakh republic on the south, is the U.S.S.R.'s new frontier. In his public report to the 20th Soviet Party Congress, (which is not so well known abroad as the "secret" one denouncing Stalin), Khrushchev called for the "mobilization of the immense natural resources of the eastern regions," and forecast that in ten years Siberia will become an industrial arsenal, producing tremendous quantities of steel, iron, coal and electric power. How great those resources are was suggested at my meeting with the Academy of Science in Novosibirsk, the big city of Western Siberia. Siberia, they said, possesses 80% of all the U.S.S.R.'s coal deposits, 75% of the timber, 60% of the hydro-electric power resources and over half of the iron ore, non-ferrous metals and copper. Already it produces 70,000,000 tons of coal yearly (more than France) in the great Kuznetsk basin. As for Kazakhstan, its mineral wealth is so varied that the members of its Academy of Science summed it up by saying they had found "all the elements of the Mendeleev system."

FAUBUS HAILS S.A. BACKERS

PRETORIA, South Africa (Reuters) — Governor Orval Faubus of Arkansas has sent a letter of thanks to a group of Pretoria office workers who contributed $18 to a fund to fight against racial integration in Arkansas schools.

"It's heartening to learn of your interest and the interest of your friends and also the support for our efforts to retain our constitutional government in America," Faubus wrote.

Big Vote Win For de Gaulle, Reds Walloped

PARIS (AP) — Premier Charles de Gaulle won another strong endorsement from the French people in first-round voting Sunday for the new National Assembly.

With many candidates trying to ride de Gaulle's coat-tails, outright foes of the premier made the poorest showing. A strong swing to the right was accompanied by a Communist decline, although the anti-Gaullist Communists were still the strongest single party. Jacques Duclos, a Communist leader, faced a stiff fight in the runoff next Sunday.

The de Gaulle tide swamped such non-Communist foes as former premiers Pierre Mendes-France and Maurice Bourges-Maunoury. Both lost assembly seats on the first ballot.

SOUTHELLE GROUP SCORES

A new Gaullist party, the Union for the New Republic headed by Information Minister Jacques Soustelle, scored the best individual success after the Communists.

This was the trend although only 41 of the 465 deputies from mainland France were elected Sunday by a majority vote over all opponents. The remainder will be chosen in

Airline Settlement

SEATTLE (AP) — A four-day strike of 86 mechanics against West Coast Airlines ended today after agreement was reached on a new one-year contract. But strikes and threatened walkouts disrupted service on some other U.S. airlines.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Almighty God, who hast set before us the goal of trained and educated minds, lift the aspirations of our hearts by power of good books and godly lives, that we may ever be worthy of freedom, reverent in its use, just in the exercise of its power, and wise in its limitations, as was Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

Youths Held In Gang Slaying

OTTAWA (CP) — Five teen-agers have been charged with murder in the slaying of Robert O'Leary, stabbed through the heart in a gang fight early Sunday.

They were remanded a week without plea in a brief police court appearance today.

O'Leary, who would have been 21 today—was left dead in an Ottawa gutter following the gang clash, sparked by a young girl's flippant comment in a restaurant argument earlier.

A blood-stained steak knife, eight inches long, was found nearby.

Six teen-agers were picked up near the scene after a policeman arrived and scared off the street fighters. Eleven others—including two juvenile girls—were rounded up at their

N.Y. Stocks In Big Drop

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market took its worst fall in a year today in a tremendous burst of selling.

Leading stocks were down fractions to about $3 a share in early afternoon. There were big losers in every major group.

Wall Street observers attributed much of the selling to some brokerage house reports which viewed the market as ripe for a reaction.

'We're Staying' U.S. Tells Reds

BERLIN (UPI) — The United States emphasized today that the Western powers are in Berlin to stay, and warned Russia that the Kremlin will be held responsible for the activities of its German puppets.

U.S. political adviser Findley Burns set forth the U.S. stand in a note to Soviet headquarters here protesting Sunday's attempt by Red police to kidnap a television cameraman from Berlin's American sector. The note stressed the right homes. After about 17 hours of questioning, murder charges were laid against five of the 17 teen-agers.

BROTHERS CHARGED

Charged are William Robert Post, 19, and his 16-year-old brother, James Montague Post; Henry Dupuis, 19; James McDermott, 17, and Thomas John Drain, 19. All are from average working-class families.

The fight scene on Somerset Street near Bronson Avenue in west-central Ottawa is only seven blocks from the spot a 17-year-old youth was kicked to death in a gang fight outside a LeBreton Street church in May last year.

O'Leary, born in Ottawa and the son of Mr. and Mrs. George O'Leary, was wearing a cast over his left wrist when he was stabbed. The wrist was broken in a neighborhood football game. Until that injury, he had been a laborer and truck driver for a construction firm.

Police said the brawl came after O'Leary, another youth and two girls were in an Albert Street restaurant when they began to exchange remarks with another group of youths.

One of the girls with O'Leary referred to the rival group as "a bunch of punks."

of the Western powers to free movement to and from this Communist-surrounded city.

The American note was filed as a result of the border attack by the Reds on Ernst Lechner, 37-year-old West German cameraman for the Columbia Broadcasting System.

It told Russia that the U.S. will hold the Soviets responsible for acts of East German Communists. It said, in effect, that the Soviets are responsible for the acts of all East German authorities and must control them.

... Then there were none!

Seems th' Power Commission's gone into a bigger slide than Whatshan.

Persuadin' some municipal candidates t' run is almost as hard as persuadin' some not t'.

THIS WORLD OF OURS People and Things

UVALDE, Tex. — Cactus Jack Garner passed the 90th milestone on his avowed way to 100 years Saturday with blessings from national leaders.

"I am deeply moved," said John Nance Garner. "I haven't the language to tell you what is in my heart."

The man who served many years as speaker of the House, then two terms as vice-president during the hectic New Deal days, was the final speaker at his birthday party.

Garner's neighbors joined with former president Harry Truman and other noted friends in paying him tribute.

Earlier in a long talk in the living room of the Tully Garner home nearby, Truman and Garner exchanged reminiscences of the New Deal days and paid high tribute to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"I loved Roosevelt," Garner said. "He was worthy of love and respect, and he returned it."

Truman then joined in: "So did I. There never was a finer man."

LONDON—A first novel by a 100-year-old Scottish woman is recommended by a London critic as "an inspiration" to angry young novelists.

The 30,000-word book, "Jottings of Jemima" by Marian L. Jones, former Edinburgh school teacher, is an intimate glimpse of a mid-Victorian household.

NEW YORK—Former movie queen Grace Kelly, who abdicated her throne in Hollywood to become the real-life Princess of Monaco, came home Sunday to eat Thanksgiving dinner with the folks in Philadelphia.

The radiantly smiling princess, bundled against a chill wind in a full-length mink coat, was greeted at Idlewild International Airport by her father, John B. Kelly, Sr., a millionaire contractor who once worked as a bricklayer.

At his daughter's side was her husband, Prince Rainier.

THEATRE GUILD OPENER

'Entertaining But Underdone'

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

A highly entertaining mixture of comedy and melodrama is R. and M. Pertwee's "The Paragon," which Victoria Theatre Guild opened Saturday night and will play all this week at Langham Court Theatre.

This first-rate if somewhat overcolored theatrical fare concerns a man's devotion to a worthless son who goes to war, switches identities in the battle line and deserts, leaving his family and friends to believe him a dead hero.

Actually, of course, he is a very much alive villain and equally, of course, eventually turns up to create crisis upon crisis on the home front.

HE SEES ALL

Doting daddy, now blind, is about to dedicate a million-dollar memorial to the hero when the light bursts upon him and, figuratively speaking, he sees all.

Here there should have occurred a smashing, suspense-laden climax to the entire action of the play, but it didn't come off on Saturday night. Poor light cues and a feeling of uncertainty on the part of the actors were mainly responsible.

No tensions were built up between the actors, principally it would seem because the production was like a cake taken out of the oven too soon—it was underdone.

Few in the cast had reached the stage where they were playing as a tightly knit team.

Most consistently convincing characterizations were given by Olive Keane, Harold Belamy, Michael Carlton-Smith and Richard Litt; the latter in the role of the prodigal paragon. Others were convincing only at moments.

ILLOGICAL

The play, like most of its kind is contrived as to situation and often illogical. But it has been written by experienced playwrights and is theatrically and technically competent. Which means that it requires both click and tight playing in order to make the most of its virtues and diminish its faults.

Director Vivienne Chadwick should not have allowed herself to be rushed with this show. She is a thoroughly capable director who has done fine work for the guild and elsewhere.

An interesting set gave the stage a pleasing air of spaciousness.

IN SHIP DISPUTE

'Some Sort Of Action' Union's Plea

An official of one of three unions involved in the long-simmering Canadian Pacific coast steamships dispute today called on Ottawa to bring it to an end by arbitration.

"The government has had several weeks to appoint an arbitration board," Denis McKeown, business agent in Vancouver of the Marine Engineers, "but they seem to have done nothing. I have sent them a letter today asking for some sort of action."

The federal government got the company's eight ships back to work July 25 after a two-month strike by the Seafarers Union by appointing an administrator under a special emergency bill.

Arbitration to decide the issue that provoked the strike — wages — was promised "shortly after" the administrator came to the coast.

NO LIFE

"But there has been no life in Ottawa," Mr. McKeown said. "This thing seems as dead as can be. We mean to find out what is being done."

The official understood the government was having a bit of trouble finding three men of the stature required to form the arbitration board, "but I don't think they can hold things up much longer."

ALD. RAMSAY TO RUN AGAIN

Ald. Hugh Ramsay announced over the weekend he will stand for re-election Dec. 11.

Seven candidates now are in the race for the four aldermanic seats, including the incumbents running for another term.

A proponent of the downtown improvement plan and amalgamation, he said he was running on his record.

Power Cost Query From Candidate

Labor's aldermanic candidate in the December 11 elections, Alfred Toone, today called on the city council to "clarify" certain power cost and distribution discrepancies in the operation of the B.C. Electric Co., and described in a recent statement by former B.C. Power Commission general manager H. Lee Briggs.

A statement issued by Mr. Toone, secretary-treasurer of the Victoria Labor Council, reads in part:

"The remarks of Mr. Briggs about the B.C. Electric are of vital importance to Victorians. I feel that in all fairness to the community and the company, the city council should try to clarify the situation."

Mr. Toone said he is particularly concerned about the difference between what it costs the company to obtain power and the price of distribution and re-sale.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Worst Tumble Of Year at N.Y.

Wall Street tumbled down to its worst decline in more than a year today in a cascade of selling. Hard on its heels a slow-trading Toronto headed for its sharp drop in the year.

Leading New York issues slipped as much as 3 points, with declines in all ranges. Industrials led the slide in Toronto. Montreal followed suit with a lower trend headed by banks and pipelines.

AT NEW YORK volume for the day was estimated at 4,500,000 shares compared with 3,950,000 Friday.

The loss was the steepest the market has taken since Nov. 26, 1957. Today's drop came after a consistent rise of more than seven months to one record high after another.

Profit taking was the chief motive in the sell-off, brokers said.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down $3.50 to $202.40.

Among Canadian stocks, McIntyre Porcupine lost 2 1/2, International Nickel 1 1/2, Aluminum Ltd. and Distillers Corporation, Dome Mines and Walker Gooderham, Canadian Pacific and Granby Mining and Hudson Bay Mining.

1. Among Canadian stocks on the American exchange, Shawinigan lost 1/2, Preston East Dome 5/16 and Fargo Oil 1/16.

AT TORONTO Loblaws Inc. slipped 8 points at 130. Ford A at 106 1/2, and International Nickel at 81 1/2, each lost 2 1/2. Steel Company of Canada dipped 2 at 66 1/2. Losses of more than a point also went to Calgary Power, Imperial Oil, B.A. Oil, International Pipe Line and Loblaw A and B.

In mines, besides International Nickel, Hudson Bay dipped 1 1/2 at 57 1/2, and Labrador and Steep Rock each lost 1/2. McIntyre down 3 1/2 at 85 led gains off.

In western oils losses of 1/2 point went to Home B, at 16 1/2 and Pacific Petroleum, at 16 1/2. Bailey-Selburn was 35 cents lower at $9.10.

In speculatives Southern Union was the most active issue off 4 cents at 56 cents. New Mylamque, ahead 5 cents in early trading, turned about for a 7-cent loss at $1.08.

AT MONTREAL the pipelines lost with Interprovincial off 1/2 at 42 and Trans-Canada off 1/2 at 25 1/2.

Off 1/2 in the banks were Royal at 74 1/2 and Toronto-Dominion at 51 1/2. Commerce declined 1/2 at 58 1/2.

The construction issues were mixed with Building Products up 1/2 at 41 1/2 and Canada Cement off 1/2 at 34.

Off 1/2 in the papers were Abitibi at 36 1/2, Powell River at 38 and Price Bros. at 47. MacMillan "B" gained 1/2 at 37. B.C. Phone gained 1/2 at 40 1/2.

Industrial volume was 89,800 shares, mines and oils 270,400.

AT VANCOUVER trading was moderate with lower prices during the forenoon. New Hamill moved 14,000 at 20. Sheep Creek traded 4,000 at 81. Basco sold 3,000 at 47. Royal Canadian Venture moved 2,500 at 35.

AT LONDON profit taking established fairly widespread losses. Gilt-edged securities were quiet and irregular. German Bonds lost further ground.

There was a general setback in dollar stocks and industrials, although breweries remained firm. Oil shares were generally dull. South African gold shares closed quietly. Coppers recorded occasional improvements.

CHICAGO (AP)—Corn and soybean futures were the broadest losers most of the time again today on the Board of Trade as scattered liquidation and hedge selling set the pace.

At times corn was off a cent or more a bushel in some contracts while the soybean losses ran to a cent. Other grains traded generally in small ranges and mostly toward weakness.

DEER HUNTERS NEARLY BECAME 'SPACE MEN'

A stray bullet from a deer hunter's rifle might have blown up Rocky Point Arsenal Sunday. Thoughtlessness by a pair of Victoria hunters in shooting on the restricted site with possible disastrous results was described by Sooke RCMP.

The men will be charged with trespassing on department of national defence property, police said.

Hunters were found well within the arsenal area, which is clearly posted to indicate danger and no admittance to unauthorized persons.

One man was firing a .303 rifle, capable of penetrating magazine doors behind which tons of high explosives are stored.

MONTE ROBERTS

I have been thinking about kitchens, and I have come to the conclusion that the designers of the Home of Tomorrow (or even today) are missing a bet.

What started me thinking about kitchens was noticing the number of people who disappear into kitchens during the course of a party.

Regardless of the comfort of the living room; regardless of the deep, soft chairs, the sectional chesterfields arranged just right for conversation; regardless of the attraction of a roaring, open fire; guests flee the living room at the first opportunity, and escape to the kitchen.

There the guests lean against the table, where the hostess is attempting to make sandwiches; rest their chins on top of the refrigerator, where the host is attempting to break out ice; or just stick their shoulders against the shiny white walls and chatter happily.

Why hosts and hostesses tolerate guests in the kitchen, I do not know. It seems to me rather unfair. What chance has a hostess to use up assorted leftovers in the sandwiches, with guests looking over her shoulder? And as for the host, the poor fellow is compelled to give honest measure in each and every drink. And no dividend for himself.

Nonetheless, guests and kitchen appear to go together, and the designers of the modern home should take this fact into consideration.

They should design kitchens with all the comforts of the living room.

Instead of being contented with antiseptic rows of stove, frig, washer, they should make provision for occasional chairs, ottomans, and other comfortable sitting-pieces.

Put in a couple of coffee tables, install the TV set above the oven door, and you'd be ready for the influx of kitchen-bound guests, ready to accommodate them without inconvenience.

This would mean considerable additional space for the kitchen, but the added area could be subtracted from the living room.

And the host and hostess could slip off quietly to the living room, there to make sandwiches and measure out the drinks in peace and privacy.

Until the guests caught on, of course, and insisted on leaving the comfort of the kitchen to crowd into the living room.

Death Calls Music Master Gideon Hicks

Gideon Hicks, 90, an outstanding figure in the musical life of Victoria and Vancouver for almost 50 years, died Sunday in hospital after an illness of a week.

Born in Cornwall, he arrived in Vancouver in 1889, where he became conductor of Grandview Church choir, and played flute in the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra.

In 1898 he accepted the post of choir leader of Metropolitan United Church here, became conductor of the Victoria Choral Society, and was responsible for many oratorio and concert performances here.

A bass-baritone himself, he was in demand as a soloist for 40 years, and had sung with the Amphion Club in Seattle, St. Cecilia Club, Tacoma, and the Vancouver Men's Choral Society.

Mr. Hicks was manager for the Heintzman Piano Co. here, but in 1920 resigned to give all his time to teaching and singing. In 1932 he moved to Vancouver to open a studio, and remained there until retiring to Victoria in 1949.

The widow, at home, 1520 Coldharbour Road, is the former Lillian Armon, Toronto, and member of Metropolitan Church choir when they were married in 1901.

Other survivors are three daughters, Mrs. Stuart Forbes, London, Ont.; Mrs. Victor Scott, Vancouver, and Mrs. Joseph Ross, Victoria; one son, Nelson Hicks, Vancouver.

The funeral will be held Wednesday at 3 p.m. at McCall's, and will be followed by cremation. It has been requested that no flowers be sent.

Eight Injured In City Traffic

A naval seaman was treated for face cuts after his car crashed into a parked vehicle early today, bringing the weekend traffic injury toll to eight.

City police said Reginald Begin, HMCS New Waterford, was taken to HMCS Naden Hospital at 12:45 a.m. after his car was in collision with a car owned by Abram D. Wiebe, 670 Battery, on Yates about 300 feet west of Quadra.

Total damage was heavy, police said.

Michael Morry, 21, of 2100 Cadboro Bay, is reported in fair condition at Jubilee Hospital where he was admitted with head injury received when his motorcycle went out of control and crashed into a power pole on the east side of Davie at Oak Bay Sunday at 2:50 p.m.

FOOT INJURY

Robert Revozy, 8, was examined at St. Joseph's Hospital for a foot injury after he and his brother Russell, both of 872 Wollaston, were in collision with a car turning at Yates and Douglas at 12:40 p.m. Saturday.

Police said Robert stepped from the curb and into the side of a car driven by John E. Fry, 1313 Gladstone.

Mrs. Ernest D. Smith, 3880 Haro, received a knee injury, cuts and bruises when the car in which she rode was in collision with another car at Middowne and Foul Bay at 10:20 a.m. Saturday.

Police said the cars, driven by Mr. Smith and Richard Cox, 542 Joffre, received about $400 damage.

A six-year-old pedestrian received multiple injuries when she was in collision with an auto Friday afternoon and was discharged at the week-end from St. Joseph's Hospital.

RAN OUT

Police said Patricia Diachina, 924 Hillside, ran in front of a truck driven by John E. Rendie, 204 Michigan, at Hillside and Blanshard at 3:45 p.m.

The girl was admitted with head cut, shock, bruises, face and knee abrasions, police said.

Joseph Lachapelle, 26, of Churchill Hotel, was treated for mouth and nose injuries, and Douglas Melvin Andrews, 18, 212 St. Lawrence, for a face cut when they were taken to Jubilee Hospital after a two-car collision at Topaz and Prior at 12:01 a.m. Saturday.

Police said Lachapelle drove one car and Thomas J. Craig, 1615 Camosun, drove the other.

Jean Arber, 34, of 1310 Franklin, was treated for shock and face abrasions and discharged from St. Joseph's after she was injured in a two-car crash at Pembroke and Gladstone at 10:10 p.m. Friday.

Cars were driven by Gordon L. Freer, 919 Vancouver, and Ronald J. Purcell, 1310 Franklin, police said.

Trucker to Face Negligence Trial In Woman's Death

Truck driver Donald Croft, 3756 Seaton, was committed to Tuesday for criminal negligence when he appeared in city police court today.

Croft was charged after the death of Mrs. Isabel Louise Tautz, 73, of 3210 Douglas, who was in collision with a B.C. Electric truck on Douglas at Francis Oct. 9.

Crown evidence at a preliminary hearing was completed today and Magistrate H. C. Hall ordered Croft committed for trial in a higher court.

Defence counsel George Gregory requested commitment be postponed a day in order that bail may be arranged.

Hospital Arrest Ends Wild Chase

Young Girl Falls From Fleeing Car

A 16-year-old Victoria boy, caught by police taking refuge in a St. Joseph's Hospital corridor Sunday afternoon, brought to a close a four-day lower island search for a stolen car.

The boy has been charged by juvenile authorities with taking a car without the owner's consent.

R. A. Spence, 2228 Harlow, opened the case when he reported his car stolen from Balmoral and Cook at about 10:55 p.m. last Wednesday.

SEEN AGAIN

Just after midnight three days later the owner reported seeing the car being driven fast on Cedar Hill at Shelbourne, and a few minutes later it was seen again in the same area.

All police departments were alerted to watch for the car, but it was not spotted again until 3:50 p.m. Sunday, again at Cedar Hill and Shelbourne, then 10 minutes later at Rupert and Heywood, several miles away in South Fairfield.

City police got on the car's trail on Chester, between Hilda and Oscar, where a 14-year-old girl tumbled from the fleeing car without injury.

A second 14-year-old girl also was a passenger, police said.

The car was stopped and its driver booted, but was apprehended minutes later when he tried to hide in the hospital.

Here in Victoria weatherman William Mackie reported 1½ inches of rain for Saturday and Sunday, of which .79 inches fell between Sunday afternoon and 4:30 a.m. today.

HE'S HONEST

"Honesty forces me to say that in the same period Nanaimo had .35 inch, and Vancouver had only .20 inch," he confessed.

Mr. Mackie predicted clear skies tonight, with cloud increasing Tuesday, and rain Tuesday night. The rain will be mixed with snow at higher levels, he said.

Dedication Asked for 8 Park Areas

City parks committee today recommended that eight parks and playgrounds be dedicated for parks purposes.

Dedication would involve a plebiscite next year. Once dedicated, the land could not be used for any other purpose without a second plebiscite cancelling the first.

Parks recommended for dedication were Macdonald, Royal Athletic and Topaz. Playgrounds recommended were James Bay, Linden and Chapman, Jackson and Tolmie, Bay and Oregon, and the Pandora Street Green.

Committee also recommended that council reserve for parks purposes five wooded lots, totalling 1.44 acres, at Brighton and Redfern.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Ray Juhasz, 118 Menzies, $25 for speeding over 30.

Donald Butler, 3575 Beach, $15 for failing to produce driver's licence on request.

Dennis Litchfield, 2518 Graham, $50 and licence suspension for careless driving.

George A. Burkman, Sidney, $35 and licence suspension for careless driving.

SENT TO THE SHOWERS AFTER RHUBARB WITH COMMITTEE

Aldermen Give Mighty 'Heave-Ho' To Pro Ball Promoters' Request

A professional baseball promoter was "tossed out of the ball park for being too lippy" to city parks committee today.

Committee recommended an application for use of the park next year be received and filed. Request was made by C. F. Mackenzie, manager of Victoria Ventures Ltd., which claims to be negotiating for a professional baseball franchise here.

Wary of the trail of unpaid bills left by the last professional baseball club in Victoria, the committee had written the new company requesting information on its financial position and plans.

Mr. Mackenzie, in a letter

read today, replied that the committee's enquiry was "the height of impertinence and is no concern of your council members."

He described the enquiry as an "inquisition" and added that the city was entitled only to know what dates the company might want use of the park.

He said that committee delay had cost the company an opportunity to obtain a franchise but there was still a "slim chance" if the committee acted promptly in guaranteeing availability of the park.

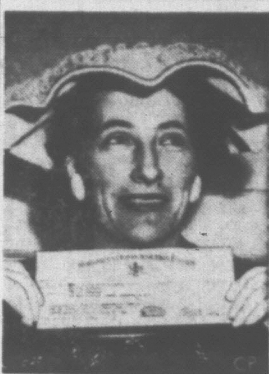

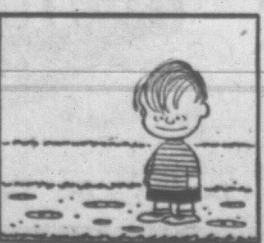

"What nerve," commented Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson. "That's a terrible letter."

"It's uncalled for. We have a responsibility to the people," said Ald. D. J. Proudfoot.

Ald. M. H. Mooney said the committee should inform council it is "not prepared to deal with this organization since it is not willing to give us information we need."

"We should drop it in the wastebasket," he added in an aside.

MRS. BEA ZUCCO ... with first pension cheque

Widow Fights Socreds In By-Election

Hard-fighting silicosis widow Bea Zucco this week will jump into the Rossland-Trail by-election campaign in a novel role.

Mrs. Zucco has rejected all offers of political affiliation and financial aid.

But she'll stump the riding talking to housewives on a non-partisan, anti-Socred basis.

Mrs. Zucco made headlines in a long fight to get a pension for herself and four children when her miner husband contracted silicosis.

All appeals to the Workmen's Compensation Board and Labor Minister Lyle Wicks failed. But after Mr. Zucco died an autopsy proved he had been suffering from silicosis.

The pension then was granted. Meanwhile, Socred officials say Premier Bennett will make his only scheduled appearance in the by-election Dec. 13 at Trail, two days before the voting.

Six cabinet ministers also will speak on behalf of candidate D. L. Brothers during the campaign.

A-G Debate Requested By Gregory

Former Liberal MLA George Gregory will issue a public challenge to Attorney-General Robert Bonner tonight for a platform debate on his handling of the Sommers case, it was learned today.

He will propose the debate take place on a public platform during the Rossland-Trail by-election.

Mr. Gregory also is expected to attack the power development policies of the B.C. Electric during a free-time political broadcast.

The broadcast will be at 10:15 p.m. and is expected to feature a review of government handling of charges laid against former forestry minister Robert Sommers Dec. 7, 1955.

Mr. Gregory engaged in a similar public debate with former Social Credit finance minister Einar Gunderson during a by-election campaign in November, 1953, when Mr. Gregory was first elected to the legislature.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

VISIT WOULD BE PREMATURE:

Our son is a senior in college. He has pinned a classmate who lives in his college town but whom we have never met. I have asked the girl to spend a weekend with us, but my son tells me that her mother wants to come too. What should I do? Frankly, I think it is too "previous" to arrange a meeting with the family.

Louise Davis Answers:

I think so too. My guess is that the girl's mother has interpreted the "pinning" as an engagement. That is neither here nor there, for she shouldn't have even intimated that she would like to come for a visit too. Naturally, she would like to meet the parents of her daughter's beau, but the young people are not yet formally engaged. I think that you could tactfully handle the situation if you write a note to the mother, telling her that you have asked her daughter to spend a weekend at your home, that you are looking forward to meeting her, and that you will take good care of her. Your letter would give assurance that the girl would be in the hands of good chaperones and it would also let the mother know that you are not inviting her at this time.

A 50TH ANNIVERSARY

The couple were married on November 26, 1908, in Vancouver by Rev. John Knox Wright. Mr. Parkin was honored recently in centennial celebrations at Holyrood House, as a pioneer resident of British Columbia. (Kandid Kamera Photo.)

STEVENSON IN RUSSIA

They also said, in answer to my question, that Malenkov, Khrushchev's predecessor, was living at the remotest end of Kazakhstan. I couldn't resist the temptation to add that as defeated head of the "opposition" in the United States I was at liberty to say what I pleased and go where I pleased—including the Soviet Union. My host quickly answered: "Why don't you invite Malenkov to the U.S.?" Maybe it would be a good idea!

Agriculture has been the Soviets' biggest failure, and Mr. Khrushchev's bold solution is to make these empty eastern regions the main granary of the U.S.S.R. He has apparently succeeded with his daring plan to reorganize industry. But success is less predictable for his plan to plow up huge areas of virgin soil in south Siberia and Kazakhstan.

Harvesters Quit

Since 1954, when the "new lands" program was started, they say that about 90,000,000 new acres have become productive. By raising more bread grains on the new lands, Khrushchev hopes to free land in the warm fertile southwest—the Ukraine and Caucasus—for what he regards as "queen of the fields," corn. With more corn he can fatten more livestock and hurry the day when Russia can "catch up with America in meat, butter and eggs," a sign we saw at every farm.

Initially some 300,000 young people were coaxed or pressured to go out as "volunteers" to till the virgin lands.

Grain to Grapes

In Kazakhstan we visited a Kolkhoz, a collective farm at the foot of the snow-capped Tien-Shan mountains on the border of China. On a hundred thousand acres of farm and pasture land, 1,680 families lived, of 21 nationalities. The 2,600 able-bodied workers raised everything from grain to grapes in commercial quantities. The livestock included cattle, horses, pigs, poultry, bees, silver foxes, 40,000 sheep and 180 camels! (Incidentally 35 people were assigned to look after the 1,500 "Russian white" pigs, which illustrates the labor waste all over Russia).

English Writers

In this cold climate greenery is much esteemed and my hotel room was largely occupied by an enormous bush that looked like hibiscus. And in the book shelves were more surprises—Dickens, Jack London, Stevenson, Galsworthy, O. Henry, Thackeray, Steinbeck and Sinclair Lewis.

We drove 40 miles into the country to see the Yegorievsky state farm, accompanied by the personable vice-chairman of the provincial Soviet, Vasily Gordeev. As we careened along I thought of Illinois before the hard roads, and then we got stuck in the mud. The wheat, barley and oats reminded me of home too. The rainfall had been exceptional this year and their best harvest was expected.

We talked with Gordeev about Soviet-American competition, and one memory of this trip I will always retain was the disappointment on his genial, handsome face when I said we were not competing on farm production. And then his dejection turned to incredulity when I said that in the U.S. we had too much food and fibre. But when I added we even paid farmers not to produce he gave me the sly, amused wink of a politician not unfamiliar with gullible audiences.

'Factory' Wages

The Yegorievsky farm had over 50,000 acres and a work force of 650. Like most of the "new lands" farms, it was a sovkhos, a state farm, rather than a kolkhoz, or collective. The latter are theoretically run on a co-operative basis, but a sovkhos is a state enterprise like a factory, and its farmers work for wages like factory workers. A regular field hand at the Yegorievsky "grain factory" receives 600-800 rubles a month, or $60 to $80 at the tourist rate of exchange.

Women's Brigade

Walking through a sugar beet field we stopped to talk with a "work brigade," mostly women. When the manager said they worked 10 hours a day, "but in winter they have nothing to do," one of them behind me muttered "We work." And I'll bet they do!

Prices are now fixed in advance on all collective production. This farm had just purchased from the Machine Tractor Station the machinery it formerly rented. The rental was payable on a complicated basis in cash, grain and operators' wages.

With prices certain and higher and no more machine rentals to pay the farm manager was happy. And, best of all, he said the changes had reduced "the bookkeeping and the bureaucrats." But I couldn't get a comprehensive estimate of the farm's net earnings—perhaps because he was an ex-bookkeeper in a government bureau.

This delightful man, who wore the red star of a "hero of Soviet labor" on his white tunic, explained that he knew nothing of farming until he was assigned the big job of managing this farm. And when he proudly told me that his son teaches history, he added, with a wry grin, "But if the government wants him to be a farmer, he'll be a farmer, too!"

Stalin Reversed

Stalin would never agree to liquidate the Machine Tractor Stations by selling the machinery to the farms. He predicted it would undermine the Soviet system. But Khrushchev has done it. And putting the machinery in the hands of those who have the best incentive for using it efficiently is certainly popular and should pay dividends.

But what does Siberia look like? If you go there at the season I did, it doesn't at all square with your image of bleak frozen wastes. My first glimpse was on a warm July day after landing in an open field—an island in a sea of green grain—near the small soviet Siberian town of Rubtsovsk, one of the centers of the new lands program.

A deputation of genial sun-burned dignitaries met us. One short-bowlegged, leathery man was introduced as the director of the Yegorievsky state farm. Had he said "Howdy, pardner" instead of "Zdravstvuyte" (that impossible Russian word for "hello"), I don't think I'd have been surprised.

At a respectful distance was a large crowd of curious

Stock Tumble Worst in 3 Years

From Times News Services

Main stock markets in both Canada and the United States dropped sharply today.

On New York the Dow Jones industrial index dropped 14.71 points and in Toronto the industrial index was down 9.18 points.

In New York it was the worst drop since September 1955.

The Toronto dip was the worst since Oct. 1, 1956.

Factors affecting the sharp drop in stocks were uncertain. In Toronto market observers said the reason the Canadian drop occurred was because of the sag at New York. Inter-listed stocks took the main beating.

Adverse news was conjured up from all angles, including talk of a resumption of demand for bonds which have been in disfavor for a long time. New bond demand would detract buyers from stocks, it was held.

The U.S. loss in valuation approached the $6 billion mark. Widest declines were in issues recently in big demand in the market.

Losses of three points or more appeared in American home products, Colgate, Du Pont, Eastman, U.S. Steel, Texas Instruments, Smith, Kline & French, Merck, Dow Chemical, International Telephone, and Goodyear.

Reasons for the selling covered a wide variety of subjects. They were taken more as an excuse than a real reason to unload stock for profits after the list had had a sharp advance over many months.

A suggestion to sell enough stock to bring a 25 per cent liquid condition was made by the brokerage firm of Arthur Wiesenberger & Co. and this was seen as a big pressure on the market. Also there were such items as the Eisenhower drive to keep government costs down, the impending Thanksgiving Day holiday, some irregularity in steel demand, and what some economists saw as a lag in the recovery process. Also traders conjured up the nation's heavy gold loss so far this year, the 90 per cent margins and fears of a 100 per cent margin, and some poor dividend news.

BRIDGE LINK TO MAINLAND REQUESTED

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—The Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association wants the federal government to build a bridge to connect Vancouver Island with the British Columbia mainland.

The association Saturday voted to ask the provincial government to "abide by the terms of union by which B.C. joined Canada."

Claude L. Harrison, former mayor of Victoria, said the move was prompted by the financial losses suffered last summer on the island because of the CPR ferry strike.

When B.C. joined Canada the terms of union provided for a rail link near the northern end of Vancouver Island, he said.

Hunter's Death Mystery

Mystery shrouds the weekend death of a Ladysmith hunter, originally thought to have died from a heart attack, but later found to have been shot.

David Forrester, 62, who had failed to keep a rendezvous with three companions Saturday in the Wolf Mountain area west of Nanaimo, was found at 10 p.m. Saturday by a search party.

His body was found slumped over a deer which he apparently had been dressing, and his gun was leaning against a tree with its safety catch on. It was thought that he had suffered a heart attack, but when RCMP investigated they found a bullet wound in his body.

NO FOUL PLAY

Police do not suspect foul play.

It is believed the fatal shot was fired by a hunter who thought he was shooting a deer, although it had been suggested it might have been a "stray" bullet fired at a legitimate target that killed Forrester.

Nanaimo RCMP today were taking statements from hunters known to have been in the Wolf Mountain-Nanaimo Lakes area Saturday.

Police said remains will be viewed at the opening session of the inquest tonight, and that evidence will be given when it convenes at a later date.

Vancouver Stocks

VANCOUVER. Closing sales. Westminster Paper "B", 425 at $30; Vananda, 500 at 3c; Trojan, 500 at 12c; Trans-Canada Pipe, 100 at $25; New Hamill, 500 at 19c; B.C. Forest Products, 200 at $14; Fort St. John, 200 at $3.30.

Deadlock at Geneva

GENEVA (UPI)—The two Geneva East-West conferences on test bans and surprise attack bogged down again today with Russia's position hardening on both fronts.

WINTER AND SUMMER . . . ONLY 18 MILES APART

Mother Nature, still befuddled by the exceptional summer she gave Vancouver Island this year, went off the deep end in both directions today. At one extreme she provided some snow on the Malahat for pretty little Grace Van den Brink, found playing at the Shawigan cutoff, and at the other, only some 18 miles away, gave Mrs. A. W. Duncan, 115 Robertson, some Japanese plum trees in full bloom. The trees are on Mrs. Duncan's boulevard. See story on page 15.—(Times photos.)

FINAL BULLETINS

Policeman Wounded in Gun Battle

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Two men, one a police inspector, were wounded today during a running gun battle in the city's east end.

A police spokesman said Walter Osborne, 44 of Saint John was felled by a police bullet after leading police through a parking lot, a cemetery and a swamp.

Packers Back From Russia Tuesday

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Kelowna Packers hockey team will arrive back here from its European exhibition tour Tuesday at 8 a.m. after a flight from Amsterdam. An airlines spokesman said the team would leave by air for Kelowna at 1.10 p.m.

Alouettes Keep 'Peahead' Walker

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four football league today announced that coach Douglas Peahead Walker has been retained to coach the club in 1959.

Crippled Lake Tug Reaches Port

TOBERMORY, Ont. (CP)—The tug Helen M. B. steamed into this Bruce Peninsula harbor today after being battered by a weekend storm that broke loose her scow and crippled her normal steering system.

The tug was the object of an air and shore search Sunday when missing for more than 12 hours.

Baldwin, Avery Still Undefeated

VANCOUVER (CP)—Favorites Matt Baldwin of Edmonton and Frank Avery of Vancouver rolled to their third-straight win early today in the second day's play at the fourth annual Totem Bonspiel.

B.C. Man Fined $500 In Ontario Gas Deal

TORONTO (CP)—The Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company was fined $150 and costs today by Magistrate Thomas Elmore for failure to file a prospectus with the Ontario Securities Commission.

Two of the company's officers, President Ralph Farris of Vancouver, and Vice-President Charles Spencer Clark of Seattle, Wash., were each fined $500 and costs on a similar charge.

Two other charges against the company and three against its officers were dismissed. A charge against the company of failing to keep its books in Ontario and failing to act in good faith in setting a fair price for the stock was withdrawn by the commission. Similar charges against Clark and Farris were withdrawn. Magistrate Elmore said the charges were highly technical and there was "no moral wrong done."

Five Teenagers Charged In Ottawa Gang Slaying

OTTAWA (CP)—Five teenagers have been charged with murder in the slaying of Robert O'Leary, stabbed through the heart in a gang fight early Sunday.

They were remanded a week without plea in a brief police court appearance today.

O'Leary, who would have been 21 today—was left dead in an Ottawa gutter following the gang clash, sparked by a young girl's flippant comment in a restaurant argument earlier.

A blood-stained steak knife, eight inches long, was found nearby.

Six teenagers were picked up near the scene after a policeman arrived and scared off the street fighters. Eleven others—including two juvenile girls—were rounded up at their homes. After about 17 hours of questioning, murder charges were laid against five of the 17 teenagers.

BROTHERS CHARGED

Charged are William Robert Post, 19, and his 16-year-old brother, James Montague Post; Henry Dupuis, 19; James McDermott, 17, and Thomas John Drain, 19. All are from average working-class families.

The fight scene on Somerset Street near Bronson Avenue in west-central Ottawa is only seven blocks from the spot a 17-year-old youth was kicked to death in a gang fight outside a LeBreton Street church in May last year.

O'Leary, born in Ottawa and the son of Mr. and Mrs. George O'Leary, was wearing a cast over his left wrist when he was stabbed. The wrist was broken in a neighborhood football game. Until that injury, he had been a laborer and truck driver for a construction firm.

Police said the brawl came after O'Leary, another youth and two girls were in an Albert Street restaurant when they began to exchange remarks with another group of youths.

One of the girls with O'Leary referred to the rival group as "a bunch of punks."

Colonization For Siberia

Not many westerners have visited Siberia and fewer still have seen as much of it as Adlai Stevenson did on his 7,000-mile Soviet travels. Stevenson, an Illinois farmer, was particularly interested in the tremendous agricultural effort being made in Siberia by Russian colonists.

By ADLAI E. STEVENSON

One of the memorable sights you see if the Russians let you travel as far east as Sverdlovsk in the Urals is a white stone shaft in a birch and pine forest by the side of a winding road about 30 miles east of town. Two words are carved on it side by side: "Europe" and "Asia." And of course you have your picture taken with one foot in Europe and the other in Asia.

To the east, across the largest plain in the world to the highlands beyond and on to the Pacific stretches the one-third of Asia called Siberia—a territory bigger than the whole U.S.A. and thrice the size of Western Europe.

The Russians started colonizing it at the end of the 16th century, when a band of Cossacks headed by Yermak crossed the Urals. They are still colonizing it, and today Nikita Khrushchev is striving to finish up the job that Yermak started. "Go east, young man," is his slogan.

I wanted to go there this summer because Siberia, together with the enormous arid Kazakh republic on the south, is the U.S.S.R.'s new frontier. In his public report to the 20th Soviet Party Congress (which is not so well known abroad as the "secret" one denouncing Stalin), Khrushchev called for the "mobilization of the immense natural resources of the eastern regions," and forecast that in ten years Siberia will become an industrial arsenal, producing tremendous quantities of steel, iron, coal and electric power.

Stevenson

How great those resources are was suggested at my meeting with the Academy of Science in Novosibirsk, the big city of Western Siberia. Siberia, they said, possesses 80% of all the U.S.S.R.'s coal deposits, 75% of the timber, 60% of the hydro-electric power resources and over half of the iron ore, non-ferrous metals and copper. Already it produces 70,000,000 tons of coal yearly (more than France) in the great Kuznetsk basin. As for Kazakhstan, its mineral wealth is so varied that the members of its Academy of Science summed it up by saying they had found "all the elements of the Mendeleev system."

Retiring Next March

The two remaining members of the three-man B.C. Power Commission today announced their retirements will take effect next March 31.

The announcement was made jointly by T. H. Crosby, the chairman, commission member Dr. H. J. MacLeod and Premier Bennett.

They said it was to clear the air following published reports of a press conference the premier held last Friday when he announced that H. H. Griffin, the other member, had resigned. At that time Mr. Bennett said the other two members, who are older men, will want to retire next year, or "some time in the future."

Both commissioners said they had planned to retire on March 31 before the current controversy arising out of charges by H. Lee Briggs, former general manager and had told the premier.

They pointed out that when they joined the power commission four and a half years ago they had both retired from other positions and had joined the power board as a public service at the request of the government.

They now propose to have their retirements take effect March 31 as they had originally planned.

FREE HAND

Right after Mr. Briggs made his charges, all three commissioners went to see the Premier and tendered their immediate resignations in order to allow him a free hand.

Mr. Bennett persuaded them not to resign immediately, but later Mr. Griffin requested to be released right away.

The two other commissioners said they were making their firm statement of retirement today because in newspaper reports of the remarks by Premier Bennett there had been some different quotations as to when they intended to retire.

Thus they wished to make their position clear.

Big Vote Win For de Gaulle, Reds Walloped

PARIS (AP)—Premier Charles de Gaulle won another strong endorsement from the French people in first-round voting Sunday for the new National Assembly.

With many candidates trying to ride de Gaulle's coat-tails, outright foes of the premier made the poorest showing.

A strong swing to the right was accompanied by a Communist decline, although the anti-Gaullist Communists were still the strongest single party. Jacques Duclos, a Communist leader, faced a stiff fight in the runoff next Sunday.

The de Gaulle tide swamped such non-Communist foes as former premiers Pierre Mendes-France and Maurice Bourgès-Maunoury. Both lost assembly seats on the first ballot.

SOUTHEAST GROUP SCORES
A new Gaullist party, the Union for the New Republic headed by Information Minister Jacques Soustelle, scored the best individual success after the Communists.

This was the trend although only 41 of the 465 deputies from mainland France were elected Sunday by a majority vote over all opponents. The remainder will be chosen in

People and Things

UVALDE, Tex. — Cactus Jack Garner passed the 90th milestone on his avowed way to 100 years Saturday with blessings from national leaders.

"I am deeply moved," said John Nance Garner. "I haven't the language to tell you what is in my heart."

The man who served many years as speaker of the House, then two terms as vice-president during the hectic New Deal days, was the final speaker at his birthday party.

Garner's neighbors joined with former president Harry Truman and other noted friends in paying him tribute.

Earlier in a long talk in the living room of the Tully Garner home nearby, Truman and Garner exchanged reminiscences of the New Deal days and paid high tribute to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"I loved Roosevelt," Garner said. "He was worthy of love and respect, and he returned it."

Truman then joined in: "So did I. There never was a finer man."

LONDON—A first novel by a 100-year-old Scottish woman is recommended by a London critic as "an inspiration" to angry young novelists.

"The 30,000-word book, 'Jottings of Jennima' by Marian L. Jones, former Edinburgh school teacher, is an intimate glimpse of a mid-Victorian household."

NEW YORK—Former movie queen Grace Kelly, who abdicated her throne in Hollywood to become the real-life Princess of Monaco, came home Sunday to eat Thanksgiving dinner with the folks in Philadelphia.

The radiantly smiling princess, bundled against a chill wind in a full-length mink coat, was greeted at Idlewild International Airport by her father, John B. Kelly, Sr., a millionaire contractor who once worked as a bricklayer.

At his daughter's side was her husband, Prince Rainier.

THEATRE GUILD OPENER

'Entertaining But Underdone'

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

A highly entertaining mixture of comedy and melodrama is R. and M. Pertwee's "The Paragon," which Victoria Theatre Guild opened Saturday night and will play all this week at Langham Court Theatre.

This first-rate if somewhat over-colored theatrical fare concerns a man's devotion to a worthless son who goes to war, switches identities in the battle line and deserts, leaving his family and friends to believe him a dead hero.

Actually, of course, he is a very much alive villain and equally, of course, eventually turns up to create crisis upon crisis on the home front.

HE SEES ALL

Dotting daddy, now blind, is about to dedicate a million-dollar memorial to the hero when the light bursts upon him and, figuratively speaking, he sees all.

Here there should have occurred a smashing, suspense-laden climax to the entire action of the play, but it didn't come off on Saturday night. Poor light cues and a feeling of uncertainty on the part of the actors were mainly responsible.

No tensions were built up between the actors, principally it would seem because the production was like a cake taken out of the oven too soon—it was underdone. Few in the cast had reached the stage where they were playing as a tightly knit team. Most consistently convincing characterizations were given by Olive Keane, Harold Bellamy, Michael Carlton-Smith and Richard Litt; the latter in the role of the prodigal paragon. Others were convincing only at moments.

ILLOGICAL

The play, like most of its kind is contrived as to situation and often illogical. But it has been written by experienced playwrights and is theatrically and technically competent. Which means that it requires both click and tight playing in order to make the most of its virtues and diminish its faults.

Director Vivienne Chadwick should not have allowed herself to be rushed with this show. She is a thoroughly capable director who has done fine work for the guild and elsewhere.

An interesting set gave the stage a pleasing air of spaciousness.

IN SHIP DISPUTE

'Some Sort Of Action' Union's Plea

An official of one of three unions involved in the long-simmering Canadian Pacific coast steamships dispute today called on Ottawa to bring it to an end by arbitration.

"The government has had several weeks to appoint an arbitration board," Denis McKeown, business agent in Vancouver of the Marine Engineers, "but they seem to have done nothing. I have sent them a letter today asking for some sort of action."

The federal government got the company's eight ships back to work July 25 after a two-month strike by the Seafarers Union by appointing an administrator under a special emergency bill.

Arbitration to decide the issue that provoked the strike — wages — was promised "shortly after" the administrator came to the coast.

NO LIFE

"But there has been no life in Ottawa," Mr. McKeown said. "This thing seems as dead as can be. We mean to find out what is being done."

The official understood the government was having a bit of trouble finding three men of the stature required to form the arbitration board. "But I don't think they can hold things up much longer."

ALD. RAMSAY TO RUN AGAIN

Ald. Hugh Ramsay announced over the weekend he will stand for re-election Dec. 11.

Seven candidates now are in the race for the four aldermanic seats, including the incumbents running for another term.

Ald. Ramsay, a freshman on council, served as chairman of the committee that introduced the business tax last year and the garbage disposal dumping in favor of sanitary land fill this year.

A proponent of the downtown improvement plan and amalgamation, he said he was running on his record.

Power Cost Query From Candidate

Labor's aldermanic candidate in the December 11 elections, Alfred Toone, today called on the city council to "clarify" certain power cost and distribution discrepancies in the operation of the B.C. Electric Co., and described in a recent statement by former B.C. Power Commission general manager H. Lee Briggs.

A statement issued by Mr. Toone, secretary-treasurer of the Victoria Labor Council, reads in part:

"The remarks of Mr. Briggs about the B.C. Electric are of vital importance to Victorians. I feel that in all fairness to the community and the company, the city council should try to clarify the situation."

Mr. Toone said he is particularly concerned about the difference between what it costs the company to obtain power and the price of distribution and re-sale.

Worst Tumble Of Year At N.Y.

Wall Street tumbled down to its worst decline in more than a year today in a cascade of selling. Hard on its heels a slow-trading Toronto headed for its sharpest drop in the year.

Leading New York issues slipped as much as 3 points, with declines in all ranges. Industrials led the slide in Toronto. Montreal followed suit with a lower trend headed by banks and pipelines.

AT NEW YORK volume for the day was estimated at 4,500,000 shares compared with 3,950,000 Friday. The loss was the steepest the market has taken since Nov. 26, 1957. Today's drop came after a consistent rise of more than seven months to one record high after another.

Profit taking was the chief motive in the selloff, brokers said. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down $3.50 to $202.40. Among Canadian stocks McIntyre Porcupine lost 2 1/2, International Nickel 1 1/2, Aluminum Ltd. and Distillers Seagrams 1 1/2, Dome Mines and Walker Gooderham 1 1/2, Canadian Pacific and Granby Mining 1 1/2 and Hudson Bay Mining 1 1/2.

AT MONTREAL the pipelines lost with Interprovincial off 1/2 at 42 and TransCanada off 1/2 at 25 1/2. Off 1/2 in the banks were Royal at 74 1/2 and Toronto-Dominion at 51 1/2. Commerce declined 1/2 at 58 1/2.

The construction issues were mixed with Building Products up 1/2 at 41 1/2 and Canada Cement off 1/2 at 34. Off 1/2 in the papers were Abitibi at 36 1/2, Powell River at 38 and Price Bros. at 47. MacMillan "B" gained 1/2 at 37. B.C. Phone gained 1/2 at 40 1/2.

Industrial volume was 89,800 shares, mines and oils 270,400. AT VANCOUVER trading was moderate with lower prices during the forenoon. New Hamill moved 14,000 at 20. Sheep Creek traded 4,000 at 81. Basco sold 3,000 at 47. Royal Canadian Venture moved 2,500 at 35.

AT LONDON profit taking established fairly widespread losses. Gilt-edged securities were quiet and irregular. German Bonds lost further ground. There was a general setback in dollar stocks and industrials, although breweries remained firm. Oil shares were generally dull. South African gold shares closed quietly. Coppers recorded occasional improvements.

Class two, IWA and Domestic wheat prices, basis Lakehead, all were up one-eighth cent from Friday.

CHICAGO (AP)—Corn and soybean futures were the broadest losers most of the time again today on the Board of Trade as scattered liquidation and hedge selling set the pace.

At times corn was off a cent or more a bushel in some contracts while the soybean losses ran to a cent. Other grains traded generally in small ranges and mostly toward weakness.
